POLITICAL NOTES.

—North Carolina, two years ago gave a Democratic majority of 20,975; now it gives a Republican majority of 10,000, and, in spite of Democratic gerrymandering, has kept the Democrats from carrying a majority of the Constitutional Convention. Is this the beginning of a new tidal wave?

—If the Democracy of Ohio are so demoralized as to stop Allen from speaking, and to silence Thurman, and even to plan the withdrawal of Allen from the ticket, what are their chances in Pennsylvania worth, when it is known they favor back-pay, salary-grabber Randall for Speaker of the House of Congress?

—The "Egypt" portion of Illinois has been infested for a time by a band of Democratic Ku-klux. Recently they rode up to the residence of J. B. Maddox, near Benton, with a view to an attack upon him, but were exceedingly astonished to find a Sheriff, with a posse of men, there. The Ku-klux fired wildly at them, and the fire was returned. The wounded, who were captured, gave the names of their companions, and the Sheriff is making it hot for the gentry. Yet we hear much of the lamb-like natures of these Southern Democrats!

—It is given out that Sam Randall, of Pennsylvania, has got a practically sure thing on the Speakership. His friends claim 100 out of the 175 Democratic votes for him in the caucus. Very likely this is true for Mr. Randall has eminent qualifications for the Democratic Speakership. He was in the first place a salary grabber as conspicious and shameless as Fernando Wood. He showed last winter great capacity for filibustering, pettifogging and obstructing the work of legislation on the most trivial grounds. He is, moreover, a good, strong protectionist and is thereby eminently fitted to lead a party which exalts Free Trade as its chief corner stone. Besides, his name is Sam, and Sam is a majestic appellation since the great Cary rose in the Democratic firmament.—Cleveland Leader.

—The Cincinnati Commercial of Saturday contains a long letter from Mr. J. H. Hertwig, a representative German of that city, giving his views upon the probable direction the German vote in Ohio will take in October, and the reason for that course. Mr. Hertwig says he is convinced the German vote of Ohio this fall will be cast on the Republican side, and will "help to effectuate the Sedan defeat of the Democratic party of Ohio it so well deserves." He explains that by the German vote he does not, of course, include German Democratic office seekers and office holders, nor blind German followers of the Pope, as both these classes of German voters are out of the reach of argument, but he refers to the floating independent German votes in Ohio, which forms the larger portion of the German vote in the State.

OUR TICKET.

There is very little to be said about our ticket put in nomination last Wednesday—it speaks for itself. We think we can say, without fear of successful contradiction, that it is the best list of names that has been presented for the support of the people of this county for a long while. We do not propose to go into any special eulogium upon the merits of the different candidates. Most of them are know to the people among whom they were born and reared much better than they are to us. It is a long time from now until the election, and we have no doubt but that they will present themselves personally to the people, which will be more satisfactory than anything we could say.

The ticket should call to its support every Republican and every honest Democrat who is tired of being imposed upon by the little ring that seems to hold the Democratic party in the hollow of its hand. As to the Democratic nominees, we shall at present, say but little. Many of them are, personally and socially, very good men, and it is their misfortune that they have been nominated by such corrupt manipulators. It is disgraceful and degrading to a party or a people when they have to submit to the control and dictation of a dozen ringleaders. Are the honest portion of the Democracy of Centre county willing to longer submit to such control? Does it alter the fact that you are driven round like so many cattle—that some men with good reputations and personally popular, have allowed their names to be used by a corrupt ring of politicians here in Bellefonte? Are you willing to allow a few men here to control the county and your party, and when they do condescend to nominate a man from Pennsvalley, (where they look for the big majorities) nominate a man they want, and one they can use—not a man you want, who will deal honestly and fairly by the people.

These are questions which the people would do well to consider. We appeal to you as honest, independent, intelligent, thinking men, to rebuke this corrupt ring and restore honesty and fair dealing, not only in making Democratic nominations, but in the administration of our county affairs. Once this ring is broken, and the people manage affairs for themselves, we have no fear but that things will go right. We have nothing to fear when the people rule. It is only when corrupt rings obtain control, that we suffer from misgovernment, fraud, corruption and peculation of every kind.

The Republican party of Centre county have a responsible duty to perform this fall. They will meet with success if they are true to themselves, and it is for the interest of the people that they should succeed. "Only one vote, it will never be missed," has been a conclusion that has cost us defeat when victory was within our grasp, as was the case last spring when Campbell was defeated by our own negligence. Had only six Republican voters turned out in each township, Campbell would have been elected. Is it not a humiliating fact that, in many townships, six times six stayed away from the polls? The only safe plan to bring out a full vote, is, for every voter to feel that his vote is the one needed to secure a victory. Prompted by this feeling, every man will be represented at the polls and the full vote of the party secured. There are many honest Democrats, as was the case last spring, who see that the only right course is to break the corrupt rings which now hold their party with bands of iron—whose influence is so great that they even control individual Republicans, or so-called Republicans, as is the case with a self-styled leading Republican of Liberty township, and some in Bellefonte, as, for instance, W. W. Brown, and some others, and at the head of this corrupt combination stands Meek, the editor, until, really, it is not a party matter, but, as this ring has captured entire the Democratic County Organization and seek to control the Republican party, in a measure, through some of its individual members, it is a question really of the people against one of the most corrupt of corrupting influences.

A WARNING.

Rev. W. T. Wylie hit the nail on the head in his sermon on Sunday morning last. Taking his text from Proverbs, relating to the training and bringing up of children, he showed how the neglect and want of such training has produced criminals in our midst. He then took up, separately, the causes of crime, and demonstrated with powerful effect who was responsible for the punishment which has overtaken seven young men of Bellefonte in their career of vice and crime.

Idleness, said the preacher, is one great source of mischief and lawbreaking. If parents would keep their children away from immoral associations—if they desire to see them grow up as obedient and law-abiding citizens—they must provide them with employment.

"Satan finds some mischief still is a truism which all experience teaches. Sabbath-breaking was ascribed as one of the causes of immorality and vice among the young men of our town. Use of tobacco, in the opinion of Mr. Wylie, leads to vice, and, ultimately, to crime; for boys who take to smoking do so from the associations they form, which are invariably bad. Profanity goes hand in hand with this vice, and these in turn lead to graver offenses.
For idle hands to do,"

Intemperance is another fruitful source of crime. If the seven young men who have recently been consigned to a felon's cell had never indulged in the use of liquor, they would not now pay the penalty of the law. Two of them broke the law in search of the fatal beverage. Two others offended against the law while under the influence of liquor, and the remainder were led into criminal associations from their habits of drinking.

Mr. Wylie further maintained that night-hawking, or allowing our boys to roam the streets till ten o'clock at night, without any legitimate business, was productive of most vicious and fatal habits. At sunset, boys ought to be under the control of their parents. No wonder crimes are committed in our midst as long as parents allow their boys leisure to do what they choose and go where their curiosity may suggest, night after night.

After the sight which this community witnessed on Thursday afternoon—ten young men handcuffed together, on their way to the Western Penitentiary—it is time for parents, pastors, and teachers, to look well to the young. There is something wrong. Will we shut our eyes to it any longer?

The sermon abounded in good old-fashioned sense from beginning to the end, and should have been heard by every parent in the town. We hope this brief but imperfect synopsis may serve to arouse public attention commensurate with the gravity and importance of the subject.

S. D. GRAY, ESQ.—This rising young lawyer, who, for the past year has been at the head of our county Republican organization, performed his closing official act on Wednesday evening last, by calling the mass meeting in the Court House to order. Mr. Gray has displayed an energy and enthusiasm in managing the affairs of the party during the past year that is worthy the great party he has so well represented. Last fall, at the special election, to fill the place in the State Legislature, made vacant by the death of Hon. S. S. Wolfe, Mr. Gray, by his sagacity and foresight, almost wrested a Republican legislator from the recognized Democratic majority of 500 to 600 votes, having reduced it to something over 150. Mr. Gray retires from the position of chairman of the county committee, with the satisfaction of having done his duty, and with the entire confidence of his party.

John G. Love, Esq., his successor, is a man of unusual ability and foresight, and will conduct the campaign this fall in a manner that will undoubtedly strike terror in the ranks of the opposition party and bring success to perch upon our banners.

—Organize! organize! The Republicans in every township should begin to make thorough organizations for the approaching great contest in November. Well disciplined and organized troops always perform the best service.

FALLING INTO LINE!

Tremendous Mass Meeting on Wednesday Evening.

The opening of the campaign on Wednesday evening last, by the Republican party of Centre county, was a significant forerunner of the victory which will, without doubt, be achieved this fall. "Let us carry the county for Hartranft!" is the watchword, and if Centre be not enrolled, after the election, among the counties that gave him a majority, then the signs of the times will have been misinterpreted.

The meeting in the Court House, with the election so far in the future, is suggestive of a vigorous and earnest campaign. One noble Governor in the last three years, has won the confidence and esteem of good men in all parties. We will do our duty in Centre. Every vote polled for him at the last election will be cast for him again at the next, and he will recieve the ballots of many who, after watching his course for three years, have become convinced that no change could be made for the better. The Court House was filled to repletion by men of all parties, and from all sections of the county. S. D. Gray, Esq., late Chairman of the County Republican Committee, called the immense throng to order, and announced the following organization:

President—A. O. Furst, Esq.

Vice President—Alexander Dale.

Mr. Furst, on taking the chair, made an eloquent address, in which he urged the party to stand firm in support of the Republican nominees in county and State. He concluded by introducing Col. William B. Mann, of Philadelphia, who, amidst rounds of cheers, took the stand. We give below the substance of his address. Prof. Chester N. Farr, of Reading, was then introduced. This gentleman made an excellent speech. He recounted the glorious history of the party, its struggles and triumphs, and adduced proof after proof to show that the only way back to good times and national prosperity, is under the leadership of the Republican party. The campaign may now be said to be fairly opened in this county.

Below is the substance of Col. Mann's address:

FELLOW CITIZENS: The last occasion that I had the pleasure of being in Bellefonte was at the meeting of the Pennsylvania Reserves, a little more than a year ago. It was the reunion of that band of gallant men whom the prudence and sagacity of Governor Curtin had organized and disciplined, and who marched to the front in time to save the country from the peril caused by the disastrous battle of Bull Run. I can never forget the reception then given by the people of your town and county to the Reserves. Patriotism delights to dwell upon your hospitality, and memory lingers with delight upon each incident of that celebration. In it, citizens participated with heart and soul, forgetful of all party ties that on other occasions might sunder them. I am here to-day upon a different mission, but, I sincerely believe, not an unpatriotic one. I am here as a Republican and to speak in behalf of the Republican party, of its claims to your confidence and support in the future, and the grateful remembrance of its glorious past.

SHOULD REPUBLICANISM BE OVERTHROWN?

And here let me ask of you, Why is the demand made that the Republican party should be dispossessed of power? What has it done that its banners should be trampled in the dust, its supporters driven into retirement and obscurity, and its champions covered with contumely and disgrace? It has saved the nation. It has preserved under the sharpest trails and amid the thunder and lightning of civil war the American Union. It has continued us one people—still united, with the unconquerable determination to secure for themselves and their posterity the blessings of civil and religious liberty forever.

WHAT OPPOSED REPUBLICANISM?

To do this it has had to contend with rebellion at the South and treason at North, both at one and the same time, for when the guns were thundering at Gettysburg the boys in blue were detached from the army to surpress treason in the Democratic strongholds in Pennsylvania. When Sheridan fought his brilliant battles in the valley, our own soldiers marched to the music of Early's cannon into a Democratic border county to maintain the laws essential to the safety of the government. After Vicksburg and Gettysburg were won and the army of the Potomac was in Virginia in front of Lee, brigade after brigade were withdrawn to repress treasonable revolution in New York, the great Democratic city of the country. Its streets were stained with the blood of the misguided mob who attacked the Union troops—those benighted men were in active sympathy with our excited brethern of the South who sought to apply the torch of the incendiary to Northern cities and to weaken our strength by introducing pestilence in the shapes of yellow fever and small-pox among the loved ones of our households. The Republican party had to contend against the active sympathy of the freest popular governments of Europe. The nation's fleets were kept guarding a thousand miles of coast, to prevent blockade runners from conveying materials of war, to aid its foes. True is it that Russia was our firmest friend—that great nation whose destiny it is to displace the crescent and replant the banners of Christianity upon recovered Constantinople; and the patriots who saw in German unity the security and glory of the Fatherland, sympathized with those who fought to preserve us one people. Although the Republican party had to contend with armed rebellion at the South, with treasonat the North, and aid and sympathy given to rebellion from abroad, it nobly performed its duty, saving the Republic, preserving the blessings of free institutions, and securing to us the right of free speech that we enjoy this veery hour.

WHAT HAS REPUBLICANISM ACHIEVED?

What has the Republican party done that we should now desert its ranks and call upon its enemies to triumph over it? It has freed four millions of God's creatures from undeserved bondage. It struck off fetter and shackle and gave freedom to a race of slaves, to men and women who had no inheritance but slavery—no hope to ever escape its thraldom. It did more; in order to enable the slave to protect himself against the renewal of tyranny and oppression, it gave him the ballot, and pledged the power of the Republic to secure to him equality before the law. The great truths, that we have been told are self-evident, "that all men are created equal and endowed with unalienable rights," have been adopted and enforced by the Republican party. Those "glittering generalities" have become fixed facts and now shine like stars upon the banner of the country. America now is free America indeed. All that tread her soil or breathe her air are free. Think of this, and contrast it with the condition of things a few years ago, when the poor hunted slave was crossing our State, hiding in swamps by day and wandering by night, his face directed to the northern star, to seek that freedom under a monarchy that was denied to him by the great republic. Thinking of this, let our hearts fill with gratitude, for this reproach has passed away for ever.

REPUBLICAN VICTORIES OF PEACE.

Nor did the Republican rule limit its achievements to the tempest and desolation of battle. It proved to the civilization of the world that "peace hath her victories as well as war." Its triumphs are not merely by the sword, where might was master. Never before in the history of this or any other people, did a nation make such rapid strides in all beneficial victories of enlightened progress. While the capital was practically besieged by treason, the Goddess of Liberty was mounted on the towering dome that is to commemorate the grandeur of our free institutions. While the country was bleeding at every pore, and when bereavement and sacrifice were the common lot of patriots, the iron tracks climbed the Rocky Mountains, and the iron horse sang his shrill song in the mountain valleys, until the railroad spanned the continent and bound the eastern and western seas in an indissoluble embrace. After nearly three generations of statesman had failed to give the people a reliable currency, it was for the first time created by Republican rule, when on every hand efforts were persistent to destroy the credit of the nation. Schools and colleges multipled as never before; and when the final triumph came the schoolhouse was opened to the boudman to fit him for his new citizenship. And in our own proud Commonwealth it has been made a part of our organic law that not less than a million a year shall be appropriated to schools, to be open to the lowly and opulent, to be free from all control of the sectarian bigot, and to be paid out of a treaty that sends no tax-gatherer to the homes of the State. Newspapers widened in their circulation until they were read in almost every home. The trained lightning followed the matchless progress of our industries until the telegraph was the familiar messenger in every village. The arts and the sciences were quickened and wrote their brighest records under the inspiration that was given to patriotic and intelligent advancement by Republicanism. Churches grew up with a rapidity before unknown, until every community had its alters to the living God, and in all that was truly good and great, the Republic made its master strides under the guidance of the Republican party. The Republican party has done all this against the most violent persistence of its enemies. They are responsible for the vast expense that draw so heavily upon the treasury of the nation. They are to be blamed for the death of those who died that the nation should live. Upon their guilty consciences should rest the fearful memories that brought sorrow to every hamlet and cast a shadow upon every household.

WHO SHALL SUCCEED REPUBLICAN RULE?

If, after all that it had done, the Republican party must cease to exist and not be permitted to preserve and bring to a successful consummation the principles it struggled to maintain, what party is to take its place, and what men are to thrive upon the ruin of its supporters? Is it the Democratic party? It cannot be! It was the antagonist of all that has been accomplished by the Republican party. Its leading adherents were the avowed enemies of every measure proposed by the Republicans to preserve the Union or to enfranchise the slaves. Even if they succeed, what do they propose to do? Do they intend to conform to what the Republicans have done, or to undo it, either in whole or in part? If in any, in what part? What has the Democratic party done to atone for its misdeed—to blot out its transgressions? Has it aided to refill the nations treasury? Has it admitted its errors or craved pardon of the American people for its crimes? Has it ever spoken word of comfort or performed deed of consolation to the heart of the mother it robbed of its darling or the widow and orphan mourning for the loss of husband and father? Who now is there among us ready to strike hands with our foes, to desert to the enemy? Who wishes to intrust the preservation of Republican principles to Democratic politicians—or who is willing to confer upon our enemies the power to destroy our friends? The long and bitter experience of the past shows what every Republican has reason to expect from Democratic sepremacy. No proscription is equal to Democratic proscription. The Republican party has often generously spared a Democratic citizen and continued him in office—as in the case of judges and others. The Democratic party never. Let no Republican therefore hope that he can be benefited by the success of the Democratic party. The Republican that would point out the pathway to a Democratic victory in the hope of agrandizement should dread the fate of Tarpeia. The victors will give nothing but what causes dishonor and destruction.

HARTRANFT THE VICTORIOUS LEADER.

At every election since 1860 Pennsylvania has chosen a Republican Governor. What is there now to cause her to falter in her patriotic devotion? Are not her candidates worthy? Her gallant soldier Governor was nominated by the State convention without a single dissenting voice. His pure and blameless life, his services in the field during the dark hours of the rebellion, his successful administration of public affairs, alike demanded this action on the part of the convention. But is this unanimous nomination to prove but an idle compliment? Shall not Republicans rally to the support of the standard they themselves have placed in his hands? Surely the great heart of Pennsylvania has not grown cold. Her sacrifice made in the cause of freedom and humanity entitles her voice to be heard and respected, and when she does speak in November, the friends of her faithful soldier shall have no reason to reproach her for infidelity to herself or to her own proud history.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH REGT., 5th DIV., N. G. OF PENN'A.
HOLLIDAYSBURG, PA., AUG. 21, 1875.

General Orders
No. 4.

I. In accordance with General Orders No. 5, Headquarters 5th Div. N. G. of Pa., Bellefonte, Pa., the annual fall inspection of the Fifth Regiment will be held at Huntingdon, on Thursday, Sept. 9th, 1875, at ten o'clock a. m.

II. Company commanders will leave their respective points of rendezvous on the first train on Wednesday morning, September 8th, so as to arrive in Huntingdon at the earliest possible hour on that day, as it is absolutely essential that some regimental movements be practiced before review and inspection. They will see that their men are provided with blankets and two days cooked rations.

III. Company commanders will at once send into Headquarters a requisition (or notice) for railroad transportation for the number of men in their several commands who will accompany them to Huntingdon.

IV. Company commanders who have not already returned to these Headquarters the roll furnished them, will do so immediately, as the inspection rolls must be carefully and correctly made out.

V. Each company should have at least forty men present at inspection, with person, uniform, arms and equipments neat, clean and in good order generally.

VI. It is expected that each company commander will adhere strictly to these orders.

By order,
JAMES F. MILLIKEN
Com'd'g. 5th Regt.

J. IRVIN BROTHERLIN,
Adjutant.

—THE unfortunate Mrs. Lincoln is declared to be fully restored to soundness of mind once more, and will soon again mingle with her friends and in society. This will prove agreeable intelligence to all who sympathize with the unfortunate lady in her distress. The horror of the assassination of her husband rested upon her, snowing how terribly she was shocked by that event. It will be fortunate if she is, indeed, fully cured.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN

Poetry.

"Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep."

It is said of the late John Quincy Adams that he never went to bed without repeating this little prayer, the first taught him by the mother whose memory was so dear to him to the last:

There are two little poems, descriptive of a child saying this prayer, that are among the tenderest in our language. The following is a combination of the best of both:

Golden head so lowly bending,
Little feet so white and bare,
Dewy eyes, half shut, half open,
Lisping out her evening prayer.

"Now I lay,"—repeat it darling—
"Lay me," lisped the tiny lips
Of my darling, kneeling, bending
O'er the folded finger tips.

"Down to sleep,"—"To sleep," she murmured,
And the curly head bent low;
"I pray the Lord"—I gently added,
"You can say it all, I know."

"Pray the Lord"—the sound came faintly,
Fainter still—"my soul to keep;"
Then the tired head fairly nodded,
And the child was fast asleep.

But the dewy eyes half opened,
When I clasped her to my brest,
And the dear voice softly whispered,
"Mamma, God knows all the rest."

O, rapture, sweet, unbroken,
Of the soul who wrote that prayer!
Children's myriad voices floating
Up to Heaven, record it there.

If, of all that has been written,
I could choose what might be mine,
It should be that child's petition
Raising to the throne divine.

There Comes a Time.

There comes a time when we grow old,
And like a sunset down to sea,
Slope gradual, and the night wind cold
Comes whispering and chilling by:
And locks are gray
As Winter's day,
And eyes of saddest blue behold
The leaves all weary drift away,
And lips of faded coral say,
There comes a time when we grow old.

There comes a time when joyous hearts,
Which leaped as leaped the dashing main,
Are dead to all save memory,
As prisoner in his dungeon chain,
The dawn of day
Hath passed away,
The moon hath into darkness rolled;
And by the embers warm and gray,
I hear a voice in whisper say,
There comes a time when we grow old.

There comes a time when manhood's prime
Is shrouded in the mist of years,
And beauty, fading like a dream,
Hath passed away in silent tears:
And then how dark!
But oh! the spark
That kindled youth to hues gold,
Still burns with clear and steady ray,
And fond affections lingering say,
There comes a time when we grow old.

There comes a time when laughing Spring
And golden Summer cease to be,
And we put on the Autumn robe,
To tread the last declivity;
But now the slope,
With rosy hope,
Beyond the sunset we behold—
Another dawn, with fairer light,
While watchers whisper through the night,
There comes a time when we grow old.

Our Story Teller.

Ruth's Stepfather.

A curious trade to take to, but then it has grown to be profitable. Things were at a low ebb with me when I took it up, while now——

There, I won't boast, only say that I'm thankful for it. Poverty comes in at the door, and love flies out at the window, so they say; but that's all nonsense, or else your poor people would be always miserable, while according to my experience your poor man is often more light-hearted than the man with the thousands.

I was at my wits' end for something to do, and sat nibbling my nails one day and grumbling horribly.

"Don't go on like that, Tom," says my wife; "things might be worse."

"How?" I asked.

"Why, we might have Luke at home, and he is doing well."

Luke's our boy, you know, and we had got him into a merchant's office, where he seemed likely to stay; but I was in a grumbling fit then, and there was a clickety-click noise going on in the next room that fidgeted me terribly.

"Things can't be worse," I said, angrily; and I was going to prove myself in the wrong by making my wife cry, when there was a knock at the door.

"Come in," I said, and a fellow-lodger in his head.

"Are you go'at works, Mr. Smith?" he said.

"What works?" I said; "fireworks—gasworks?"

"No, no; I mean works of things as goes with wheels and springs."

"Middling," I said, for I was fond of pulling clocks to pieces and trying to invent.

"I wish you'd come and look at this sewing machine of mine, for I can't get it to go."

Sewing machines were newish in those days, and I got up to have a look at it, and after about an hour's fiddling about, I began to see a bit the reason why—the purpose, you know, of all the screws and cranks and wheels; I found out, too, why our neighbor's wife, who was a dressmaker, and had just started one, could not get it to go; and before night, by thinking, and putting this and that together, had got her in the way of working it pretty steadily, though with my clumsy fingers I couldn't have done it myself.

I had my bit of dinner and tea with those people, and they forced half-a-crown upon me as well, and I went back feeling like a new man, so refreshing had been that bit of work.

"There," said my wife, "I told you something would come."

"Well, so you did," I said; "but the something is rather small."

But the very next day—as we were living in the midst of people who were fast taking to sewing machines—if the folks from the next house didn't want me to look at theirs! and then the news spreading, as news will spread, that there was somebody who could cobble and tinker machinery without putting people to the expense that makers would, if the jobs didn't come in fast, so that I was obliged to get files and drills and a vice—regular set of tools by degrees; and at last I was as busy as a bee from morning to night, and whistling over my work as happy as a king.

Of course every now and then I got a breakage, but I could generally get over that by buying a new wheel or spindle, or what not. Next we got to supplying shuttles and needles and a machine of a man who was tired of it. Next week I sold it at a good profit. Bought another and another, and sold them; then got to taking them and money in exchange for new ones, and one way and the other became a regular big dealer, as you see.

Hundred? Why, new, second-hand, and with those being repaired up-stairs by the men, I've got at least three hundred on the premises, while if anybody had told me fifteen years ago that I should be doing this I should have laughed at them.

That pretty girl showing and explaining the machine to the customer? That's Ruth, that is. No, not my daughter—yet, but she soon will be. Poor girl, I always think of her and of the bread thrown upon the waters at the same time.

Curious idea that, you will say, but I'll tell you why.

In our trade we have strange people to deal with. Most of 'em are poor, and can't buy a machine right off, but are ready and willing to pay so much a week. That suits them and it suits me, if they'll only keep the payment up to the end.

You won't believe me, perhaps, but some of them don't do that. Some of them leave their lodgings, and I never see them again; and the most curious of it is that the sewing machine disappears with them, and I never see it again. Many a one, too, that has disappeared like that I do see again—perhaps have it brought here by some one to be repaired, or exchanged for a bigger, or for one by a different maker; for if you look round here you'll see I've got all kinds—new and old, little domestics and big trades there you name any maker and see if I don't bring you out one of his works.

Well, when I ask these people where they got the machine—for I always know them by the number—it turns out they've bought it through an advertisement or at a salesroom, or may be out of a pawnbroker's shop.

But I've had plenty of honest people to deal with, too—them as have come straight-forward and told me they could not keep up their payments, and asked me to take their machine back, when I'd allow them as much as I thought fair, and 'twould be an end of a pleasant transaction.

The way I've been bitten though by some folks, has made me that case-hardened, that sometimes I've wondered whether I'd got any heart left, and the wife had to interfere, telling me I've been spoiled with prosperity and grown unfeeling.

It was she made me give way about Ruth, for one day, after having had my bristles all set up by finding out that three good sound machines, by best makers, had gone nobody knew where, who should come into the shop but a lady-like-looking woman in very shabby widow's weeds. She wanted a machine for herself and daughter to learn, and said she had heard that I would take the money by installments. Now, just half an hour before, by our shop clock, I had made a vow that I'd give up all that part of the trade, and I was very rough with her—just as I am when I'm cross—and said "No."

"But you will if the lady gives security," says my wife hastily.

The poor woman gave such a woe-begone look at us that it made me more out of temper than ever, for I could feel that if I stopped I should have to let one at her own terms. And so it was; for there, if I didn't let her have a first-class machine, as good as new, she only paying seven and six down, and undertaking to pay half-a-crown a week, and no more security than nothing.

To make it worse, too, if I didn't send the thing home without charge, Luke going home with it, for he was back at home now keeping my books, being grown into a fine fellow of five and twenty; and I sat and growled the whole of the rest of the day, calling myself all the weak-minded idiots under the sun, and telling the wife that my business was going to the dogs, and I should be ruined.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Tom," she said.

"So I am," says I. "I didn't think I could be such a fool."

"Such a fool as to do a good kind action to one who was evidently a lady born, and come down in the world!"

"Yes," I says, "to living in Bennett's Place, where I've sunk no less than ten machines in five years."

"Yes," says the wife, "and cleared hundreds of pounds. Tom I'm ashamed of you—you a man with twenty workmen busy up-stairs, a couple of thousand pounds worth of stock, and in the bank a——"

"Hold your tongue, will you!" I said roughly, and went out into the shop to try to work it all off.

Luke came soon after, looking very strange, and I was at him directly.

"Where is the seven and six!" I says, angrily.

He didn't answer, but put three half-crowns down on the desk, took out the book, made his entries—date of delivery, first payment, when the other's due, and all the rest of it—and was then going into the house.

"Mind," I says, sharply, "those payments are to be kept up to the day; and to-morrow you go to Rolly's who live nearly opposite to 'em, and tell 'em to keep an eye on the widow, or we shall lose another machine."

"You needn't be afraid, father," he says, coldly; "they're honest enough, only poor."

I was just in that humor that I wanted to quarrel with somebody, and that did it.

"When I ask you for your opinion, young man, you give it me; and when I tell you to do a thing, you do it," I says, in as savage a way as ever I spoke to the lad. "You go over to-morrow and tell Rolly's to keep a strict lookout on those people—do you hear?"

"Father," he says, looking me full in the face, "I couldn't insult them by doing such a thing," when, without another word he walked quietly out of the shop, leaving me worse than ever. For that boy had never spoken to me like that before, and I should have gone after him feeling mad like, only some people came in, and I didn't see him again until evening, and a good thing, too, for I'm sure I should have said all sorts of things to the boy, that I should have been sorry for after. And there I was fuming and fretting about, savage with everybody, giving short answers, snapping at the wife, and feeling as a man does feel when he knows that he has been in the wrong and hasn't the heart to go and own it.

It was about eight o'clock that I was sitting by the parlor fire, with the wife working and very quiet, when Luke came in from the workshop with a book under his arm, for he had been footing up the men's piecework, and what was due to them; and the sight of him made me feel as though I must quarrel.

He saw it too, but he said nothing, only put the accounts away and began to read.

The wife saw the storm brewing, and she knew how put out I was, for I had not lit my pipe, nor yet had my evening nap, which I always have after tea. So she did what she knew so well how to do—filled my pipe, forced it into my hand, and just as I was going to dash it to pieces in the ashes, she gave me one of her old looks, kissed me on the forehead, as with one hand she pressed me back into my chair, and then with the other she lit a splint and held it to my tobacco.

I was done. She always gets over me like that; and after smoking in silence for half an hour, I was lying back, with my eyes closed dropping off to sleep, when the wife said (what had gone before I hadn't heard—

"Yes, he's asleep now."

That woke me up, of course, and if I didn't lie there shamming and heard all they said in a whisper.

"How came you to make him more vexed than he was, Luke?" said the wife; and he told her.

"I couldn't do it mother," he said excitedly. "It was heart-breaking. She's living in a wretched room there with her daughter; and, mother, when I saw her I felt as if—there, I can't tell you."

"Go on, Luke," she said.

"They're half starved," he said, in a husky way. "Oh, mother, it's horrible. Such a sweet, beautiful girl, and the poor woman herself dying almost with some terrible disease."

The wife sighed.

"They told me," he went on, "how hard they had tried to live by ordinary needle work, and failed, and, that as a last resource they had tried to get the machine."

"Poor things!" says the wife; "but are you sure the mother was a lady?"

"A clergyman's widow," says Luke, hastily; "there isn't a doubt about it. Poor girl! and they've got to learn to use it before it will be of any use."

"Poor girl, Luke?" says she softly; and I saw through my eyelashes that she laid a hand upon his arm and was looking curiously at him, when if he didn't cover his hands, rest his elbow on the table, and give a low groan! Then the old woman got up, stood behind his chair and began, playing with and caressing his hair like the foolish old mother would.

"Mother," he says suddenly, "will you go and see them?"

She didn't answer for a minute, only stood looking down at him, and then said softly—

"They paid you the first money?"

"No," he says hotly. "I hadn't the heart to take it."

"Then that money you paid was yours, Luke?"

"Yes, mother," he says, simply; and those two stood looking one at the other till the wife bent down and kissed him, holding his head afterwards for a few moments between her hands; for she always did worship that chap, our only one; and then I closed my eyes tight and went on thinking.

For something like a new revelation had come upon me. I knew Luke was five and twenty and that I was fifty-four, but he always seemed like a boy to me, and here was I waking up to the fact that he was thinking and feeling as I first thought and felt when I saw his mother, nigh upon eight and twenty years ago.

I lay back, thinking and telling myself I was very savage with him for deceiving me, and that I wouldn't have him and his mother laying plots together against me, and that I wouldn't stand by and see him make a fool of himself with the first pretty girl he set eyes on, when he might marry Maria Turner, the engineer's daughter, and have a nice bit of money with her to put into the business, and be my partner.

"No," I says; "if you plot together, I'll plot all alone," and then I pretended to wake up, took no notice, and had my supper.

I kept rather gruff the next morning and made myself very busy about the place, and I dare say spoke more sharply than usual, but the wife and Luke were as quiet as could be, and about twelve I went out, with a little oil-can and two or three tools in my pocket.

It was not far to Bennett's place, and on getting to the right house I asked for Mrs. Murray, and was directed to the second floor, where, as I reached the door, I could hear the clicking of my sewing machine, and who ever was there, was so busy over it that she did not hear me knock, so I opened the door softly and looked in upon as sad a scene as I shall ever, I dare say, see.

There in the bare room sat asleep in her chair, the widow lady who came about the machine, and I could see that in her face which told plainly enough that the pain and suffering she must have been going through for years would soon be over, and, situated as she was, it gave me a kind of turn.

"It's no business of yours," I said to myself roughly; and I turned then to look at who it was bending over my machine.

I could see no face—only a slight figure in rusty black; and a pair of busy white hands were trying very hard to govern the thing, and to learn how to use it well.

"So that's the gal, is it?" I said to myself. "Ah, Luke, my boy, you've got to the silly calf age, and I dare say——"

I got no further, for at that moment the girl started, turned around, and turned upon me a timid, wondering face, that made my heart give a queer throb, and I couldn't take my eyes off her.

"Hush!" she said softly, holding up her hand; and I saw it was as thin and transparent as if she had been ill.

"My name's Smith," I said, taking out a screw-driver. "My machine: how does it go?

Her face lit up in a moment, and she came forward eagerly.

She pointed to the thread regulator, and the next minute I was showing her that it was too tight, and somehow, in a gentle timid way, the little witch quite got over me and I stopped there two hours helping her, till her eyes sparkled with delight, as she found out how easily she could now make the needle dart in and out of the hard material.

"Do you think you can do it now?" I said.

"Oh, yes, I think so; I am so glad you came."

"So am I," says I gruffly; "it will make it all the easier for you to earn the money, and pay for it."

"And I will work so hard," she said earnstly.

"That you will, my dear," I says in spite of myself, for I felt sure it wasn't me speaking, but something in me. She been ill long?" I said, nodding towards her mother.

"Months," she said, with tears starting in her pretty eyes; "but," she added brightly, "I shall have enough with this to get her good medicines and things she can fancy;" and as I looked at her, something in me said—

"God bless you, my dear! I hope you will:" and the next minute I was going down stairs, calling myself a fool.

They thought I didn't know at home, but I did: there was the wife going over and over again to Bennett's place; and all sorts of little nice things were made and taken there. I often used to see them talking about it but I took no notice; and that artful scoundrel, my boy Luke, used to pay the half-crown every week out of his own pocket, after going to fetch it from the widow's.

And all the time I told myself I didn't like it, for I could see that Luke was charged, and always thinking of that girl—a girl not half good enough for him. I remembered being poor myself, and I hated poverty, and I used to speak harshly to Luke and the wife, and feel very bitter.

At last came an afternoon when I knew there was something wrong. The wife had gone out directly after dinner, saying she was going to see a sick woman—I knew who it was, bless you! and Luke was fidgeting about, not himself; and at last he took his hat and went out.

"They might have confided in me," I said bitterly, but all the time I knew that I wouldn't let them. "They'll be spending money—throwing it away. I know they've spent pounds on them already."

At last I got in such a way that I called down our foreman, let him charge, took my hat and went after them.

Everything was very quiet in Bennett's place, for a couple of dirty, dejected-looking women, one of whom was in arrears to me had sent the children that played in the court right away because of the noise, and were keeping guard so that they should not come back.

I went up the stairs softly, and all was very still, only as I got nearer to the room I could hear a bitter, wailing cry, and then I opened the door gently and went in.

Luke was there, standing with his head bent by the sewing machine; the wife sat in a chair, and on her knees, with her face buried in the wife's lap, was the poor girl, crying as if her little heart would break; while on the bed, with all the look of pain gone out of her face, lay the widow—gone to meet her husband where pain and sorrow are no more.

I couldn't see very plainly, for there was a mist like before my eyes; but I know Luke flushed up as he took a step forward, as if to protect the girl, and the wife looked at me in a frightened way.

But there was need, for something that wasn't me spoke, and that in a gentle way as I stepped forward, raised the girl up, and kissed her pretty face before laying her little helpless head upon my shoulder and smoothing her soft brown hair.

"Mother," says that something from within me, "I think there's room in the nest at home for this poor, forsaken little bird. Luke, my boy, will you go and fetch a cab? Mother will see to what wants doing here."

My boy gave a sob as he caught my hand in his, and the next moment he did what he had not done for years—kissed me on the cheek—before running out of the room, leaving me with my darling nestling in my breast.

I said "My darling," for she has been the sunshine of our home ever since—a pale, wintry sunshine while the sorrow was fresh, but spring and summer now.

Why, bless her! look at her. I've felt ashamed sometimes to think that she, a lady by birth, should come down to such a life, making me—well, no, it's us now, for Luke's partner—no end of money by her clever ways. But she's happy, thinking of her husband that is to be the finest fellow under the sun; and let me tell you there's many a gentleman not so well off as my boy will be, even if the money has all come out of a queer trade.

Country Girls.

Whom Shall We Marry?

A correspondent of the Chicago Inter-Ocean from Bismarck, Ill., says:

"Whom shall we marry?" "Maid" says, in the paper of August 4, "Go west, young man, go west," and marry a "country girl." I say, stay where you are, and marry a sensible girl, whether from city or country. A man is an idiot who marries a country girl thinking thereby to get a capable wife. A country girl brought to the city, after having been bred in a very plain way upon a farm, begins to put on airs, thinking shoddy finery and idleness will compensate for want of sense; whereas a city girl in the same grade of society might make him a capable earnest wife. There is a great deal of romance in the idea of country girls, but the reality is often far from pleasing. I know a young man who started in a good business a few years since, was engaged to a country girl, and wished to defer marriage for a year, until his business should stand on a firmer basis; she wrote him a most touching letter; it was so much better to marry at once; she had been brought up to work; her family had never kept servants; they would rent two or three rooms, furnished plainly; she would need no new clothes; she would bring supplies from home, etc.—quite a glowing picture. Mark the sequal. They were married at a needless outlay of expense, rented a house, the husband buying all the furniture, the wife's "supplies" being one small box, upon which the husband paid the expressage. The "country wife" was afraid people would not think much of her if she did her own work, so she must "keep a girl," and flaunted her finery on the street every day, wanting all the new styles she saw. The consequence was a wretched failure in business before the end of two years; and even that did not teach her wisdom. Young man, if you marry a country girl merely from motives of economy, you make a great mistake. Marry a woman of sense, education and refinement, be she from the city or country, and, my word for it, you will have a wife who will be a helpmate for you under all circumstan

Strong Drink.

I have heard the wail of children crying for bread, and their mother had none to give them. I have seen the babe pulling the breasts as dry as if the starved mother had been dead. I have known a father turn a step-daughter into the street at night, bidding the sobbing girl who bloomed into womanhood, seek her living there as others did. I have bent over the foul pallet of a dying lad to hear him whisper, and his father and mother, who were sitting half drunk by the fire-side, had pulled blankets off his body to sell them for drink. I have seen the children blanched like plants in a cellar—for weeks they never breathed a mouthful of fresh air for want of rags to cover their nakedness; and they lived in continual terror of a drunken father or mother coming home to beat them. I do not recollect ever seeing a mother in these wretched dwellings handling her infant, or of hearing the little ones crow or laugh. These are some of drink's doings; but nobody can know the misery suffered amid these scenes of wretchedness, woe, want and sin.

THE West Chester Republican says: On the 25th of August, the descendants of Isaac Jackson, who emigrated to America in 1725, and settled in Toughkennamon Valley, near the present site of West Grove, propose to celebrate the 150th anniversary of that event by a "sesqui-centennial." There is a romantic story connected with the immigration of Mr. Jackson, to the effect, that while a resident of England, and before he had contemplated removing to the new world, he had a remarkable dream, in which he was transported to America, and in a beautiful valley, hemmed in by wooded hills, he had chosen his home. The location was firmly fixed in his mind in the vision—every topographical phase of the country being clearly impressed upon him. So tenaciously did the memory of his dream cling to him, that he determined to seek the land of his vision, and accordingly embarked for Philadelphia. On landing, he turned his face to the West, and set out to find his ideal home. He passed through all the beautiful region of Delaware county, and through the beautiful valley at Chadd's Ford; but failed to recognize the site of his dream. Striking the Toughkennamon Valley, he pushed westward till he reached what is now West Grove, and ho! the whole landscape of his dream lay spread out before him, faithful in detail. Purchasing a large tract, he immediately settled, and lived and died on the spot, leaving numerous decendants, who to-day, number over five hundred, and the celebration on the 25th prox., will be a reunion of all the branches of the family. It is proposed to hold the sesqui-centennial on the site of the old log mansion, and where the company can look upon the same landscape that once delighted the eyes of Isaac Jackson one hundred and fifty years ago.

IT is becoming more and more manifest that the contrast between Republican and Democratic administration in the States of the South, is so largely in favor of Republicans, that a revulsion of popular feeling is going on which promises to give a majority of the Southern States to the Republicans Presidential year. North Carolina recently went Republican by 18,000 majority,—a revulsion of over 30,000 as compared with the previous election. In Florida, the State is prospering so greatly under Republican administration, that the people indicate a purpose to permit no change. South Carolina, Mississippi and Louisiana, may also be said to be practically assured to the Republican party. We also fully believe it to be also true, that the people of Ohio, disgusted with the shameful corruption of the Democratic Legislature of last year, and the shameless demagoguery of Allen and Cary, will go Republican more heavily than for many years. So affairs are coming right.

GIVE YOUR CHILD A NEWSPAPER.—A child beginning to read becomes delighted with a newspaper, because he reads of names and things which are familiar, and he will progress accordingly. A newspaper in one year is worth a quarter's schooling to a child. Every father must consider that information is connected with advancement. The mother of a family, being one of its heads, and having a more immediate charge of children, should herself be instructed. A mind occupied becomes fortified against the ills of life, and is braced for emergency. Children amused by reading or study, are, of course, more considerate and easily governed.

A young man just beginning life, went for counsel to an eminent leader in his profession, whose career had been marked by brilliant success. "How can I succeed in life?" was the earnest question. "Always do your very best," was the simple answer.

JONES says that he once had a near-sighted hen that ate a quart of sawdust, believing it to be barley meal, and then went off cackling, and laid a full nest of door knobs.

What are We Living for?

Living or dead? Which? We must be either one or the other. And if one is alive or wishes to make a name in life they must have an aim in life. We were all created for some wise purpose and to fill some sphere in life, and he that drags along day by day, only a weight on the wheels of time, with no ambition in life, is a miserable shift, not doing, or seeking to do the work for which he was created. He is already dead as far as any sense of purity or honor is concerned. That they are spared (a burden to all around them) is only proof that God is sparing them in mercy, giving them an opportunity to return to him in penitence, and find the work assigned them. This is a fast age and as a general thing we are a fast people; that is, we live. No plodding, methodical jog-trot will do for us in the nineteenth century. No, we must go on a gallop. We must go fast or some one will be sure to get in ahead. So we bolt our meals, we gallop our horses, we rush our business, we shorten our calls, we even go to church in a hurry (and that's all right, especially if we start late), and then we want a short sermon, and complain in round terms if the good minister happens to exceed his half hour. So it goes day after day wasting, our power, weakening our intellect, and tearing down, instead of building up the physical structure of the body. Of course there are always exceptions to the general rule. But do we not (as a nation, or a people) live too, and almost in a constant state of hurry and worry. Now what are we living for? What is all this hurry and worry, and all this nervous haste to amount to? Well we take it for granted that every one who lives in haste has a constant aim to lure him on, and a great work to accomplish. There are scarcely two persons in a community who have the same aim in life, that is in a worldly sense. One lives with the aim constantly in view, of becoming wealthy, while another thinks only of selfish ease and present enjoyment, while still another is wrapped up in vanity and thoughts of human greatess. What are we living for? I repeat the question. What are our aims in life, our hopes and aspirations? Are we living with the aim of glorifying God, and doing good to all around us? If so, the aim is the only worthy one, and great will be your reward in Heaven. Are we living with Christ as our only refuge, and a present help in times of trial? If so our hope is not in vain, and we have the promise of the life that now is and the life which is to come. Are we aspiring to be more like our heavenly Master, ever striving to know more of his will? Then indeed will the comforter draw nigh and the promise be verified, "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you." And again, "Whatsoever ye shall ask in my name," beleiving, ye shall receive." So we see that the sincere Christian has the only worthy aim in life. While they are content to do their Father's will, either in poverty or wealth, they are living for an "inheritance incorruptible, undefiled and that fadeth not away, eternal in the Heavens." May this be our aim in life and we shall sing the songs of the redeemed and blood-washed around our Father's throne in Heaven.

What are we living for?

THE Cincinnati Gazette gives the following as an exact copy of a coroner's jury verdict, which was filed in the country clerk's office, in Cincinnati, Tuesday: "We, the jury, find that the said Louis Fillman came to his death by a shot accidentally went off by himself by killing a cat by shooting the same and when she was not dead instantly by striking the cat with the breech of the gun and the load discharged itself."

A BOY asked his father who it was that lived next door to him, and when he heard the name, inquired if he was a fool. "No, my little son, he is not a fool, but a very sensible man; why did you ask the question?" "Because mother said the other day that you were next door to a fool."

A BOY once complained of his brother for taking half of the bed. "And why not?" said his mother; "he is entitled to half, is he not?" "Yes, Ma," said the boy, "but how should you like to have his half out of the middle, and I have to sleep on both sides of him."

MAGNIFICENT OFFER!

Sewing Machines Given Away.—Subscribe for The Bellefonte Republican, the Liveliest and Best Paper in Centre Co. A Sixty Dollar Machine of the Best Make in the World for 30 Names.

A very liberal contract, which we have just completed with the Weed Sewing Machine Company, will enable us, we hope, to place their celebrated machines in many families throughout the country. So fine an opportunity to secure a first-class sewing machine seldom occurs. May we not expect the friends of this paper to make an earnest, united effort to extend greatly its circulation, and thus help to increase its influence? We will liberally reward those who work for us. Reader, can you not form a club in your neighborhood and secure this sewing machine premium? A few hours of well-directed effort will obtain it. Postmasters in the smaller towns and villages can, with a little thought and effort, easily send us the requisite number of names. Has the parsonage a sewing machine? If not, call upon a few ladies and gentlemen of the congregation. Tell them your plan and ask them to help you. In the congregation 30 names can, with little difficulty, be secured. Send us the $60 and we will forward for one year this paper to each of the 30 subscribers, which will pay them the full value of their subscriptions, and in addition, we will make a present, to any person you may designate, of a beautiful sixty dollar Sewing Machine. How easily a club may be formed in the Masonic or Odd Fellows or Temperance Society, or in the Grange? Is there not depending upon your society some poor widow to whom a sewing machine would be for years to come a blessing? Pass the subscription paper. Thirty persons subscribing for this journal at $2.00 each, will secure for themselves, without any extra charge, the paper for one year, and a most valuable present for some needy family. TRY IT, FRIENDS. DON'T WAIT! BEGIN THE WORK AT ONCE! Send us word that you have undertaken the formation of such a club.

Remember, the machines are warranted to be perfectly new, latest improved, and in perfect order.

Republican County Convention.

The delegates of the Republican party of this county, assembled in convention on Wednesday afternoon last, in Reynolds' Hall, to place in nomination a ticket to be voted for and elected this fall.

S. D. Gray, Esq., the faithful and energetic chairman of the County Committee, called the convention to order whereupon Colonel James P. Coburn was nominated and elected chairman.

On taking the chair, Colonel Coburn delivered a short address, in which he said that, if the Convention then and there assembled would select suitable candidates for the offices to be filled, he felt sure of success at the coming election. He exorted every Republican to be vigilant and faithful, and victory was certain.

George W. Boal, J. Spear Thompson and James M. Thompson were chosen secretaries.

The roll was called, and the following delegates were present and answered to their names:

The first nominations in order were for Senator. Col. Robert McFarlan was nominated by acclamation, subject to the decision of the Republican District, Conferrees. The Colonel, however, in a graceful speech declined the honor, whereupon the Convention proceeded to elect conferrees. Col. Robert McFarlan, Robert H. Duncan, John T. Johnston, were elected unanimously.

Nominations for Treasurer were next in order.

The following is the record of the vote for Treasurer.

Geo. A. Bayard	70
Joel Kling	10
Levi A. Miller	4

On a motion of a delegate, Col. Bayard's nomination was made unanimous by a hearty shout of "ayes."

For the office of Sheriff, the following gentlemen were nominated, three ballots being taken.

	1st ballot	2nd ballot	3rd ballot
H. C. Beamer	36	29	22
D. Glenn	28	41	48
George Alexander	30	15	11

Mr. Glenn having a majority of all the votes was declared elected, and on motion the vote made unanimous.

For the office of Prothonotary the vote stood as follows:

	1st ballot	2nd ballot
H. A. Snyder	38	53
J. H. Crieseman	33	26
D. P. Shope	13	6

H. A. Snyder's nomination was then made unanimous.

For the office of Register of Wills the vote stood as follows:

	1st ballot	2nd ballot
John Lehr	39	64
D. S. Haughawalt	18	8
D. M. Cower	25	20

Mr. Lehr's nomination was then made unanimous.

For the office of Recorder, but one ballot was taken, as follows:

R. C. Neal	57
J. D. Miller	18

The complimentary custom of making the vote unanimous was again repeated.

For the office of Commissioner the following gentlemen were placed in nomination:

	1st	2d	3d	4th	5th	6th
Jas. Dunlap	28	16	...	...	...	...
W. W. Rogers	38	36	32	34	35	40
D. Keller	4	2	...	...	...	...
George Taylor	21	31	24	28	31	30
Andrew Gregg	37	44	...	..	...	...
Robert Glenn	4	...	...	...	...	...
J. M. Kephart	13	8	...	...	...	...
James Campbell	25	23	24	15	5	...

Andrew Gregg and W. W. Rogers were declared duly nominated, amidst the best of feeling. Their nominations were made unanimous.

For the office of Coroner, Dr. E. A. Russell was nominated by acclamation.

For the office of Auditor, William McFarlan and James B. Curtin were nominated by acclamation.

John G. Love, Esq., was appointed Chairman of the County Convention.

This Convention was more largely attended, and gave signs of a more closely contested primary struggle than any convention held in this county during the last ten years. The best of feeling prevailed and there are no sore heads left to breed dissension in our ranks. The ticket is unexceptionable. There is not a man on it but will make an excellent officer. We believe that there never was a ticket placed in the field anywhere that gave such universal satisfaction to all. Now, then, fellow Republicans, let us roll up our sleeves, and with a long pull and a strong pull and a pull altogether, let us wrest this county from Democratic misrule.

There was one thing noticeable, viz.: there was no ring up. The candidates nominated were evidently the choice of the rank and file. It was a clear and fair expression of the will of the majority of the people. What a contrast is this to the ring-rule governing of the Democracy of this county. No man could say with certainty that this or that man would be nominated. There was no little ring of a dozen men met in a private office to dicide what the convention should do. Not so with our opponents. They met in Alexander's office just before the Convention met, and decided to nominate just the men that were nominated. That should disgust all honest Democrats, and if they desire good government they will break up this ring at whatever cost. It is for the interests of the people, Democrats, that the power of this combination should be broken.

OUR ASSOCIATED PRESS LETTER.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept 1, 1875.

THE PHILADELPHIA ALMSHOUSE.

This institution is a big affair—a bonanza. Within its walls are domiciled, on an average, about 3,500 poor, who are fed, clothed, warmed and physiced, at the public expense. To feed between three and four thousand paupers every day of the year, requires a great deal of meat, large quantities of potatoes, flour, etc.

This incident having reference to the purchase of potatoes for the paupers, was told me a few days ago by one of the honest gentlemen connected with the institution.

Said Mr. Scorem: We present a good show of honesty in all our dealings; if we buy potatoes, we have them weighed to see that we get 60 pounds to the bushel; for several years we have employed a discharged pauper to see to the weighing of coal, potatoes, oats, etc. This weigher has nothing to do with the quantity purchased; his duty is simply to weigh and report results.

Not long since a purchase of 200 bushels of potatoes was made from a Delaware county farmer, whose measurement invariably turns the scales at 65 pounds to the bushel. After his 200 bushels were stored away, the weigher looked at his figures, the overflowing bins, and then violently raking his head with his knotted fingers, remarked: "There is something queer about that lot of potatoes; they fill the bins much fuller than when Fleecem put in a thousand bushels last spring."

I am told that Delaware county will never be permitted to repeat that trick on the poor paupers. "It is not paying what for you get," remarked Mr. Scorem, "that makes our bills run up so rapidly, but it is paying for what you do not get in every department of our municipality that is running up our city's indebtedness with such frightful rapidity."

Lest your readers might think that the president of the board of directors is responsible for this state of affairs, I would mention that, in moving to his present residence—immediately following his election—which is within the circle of the shadow cast by the almshouse building, the President, Mr. James S. Chambers, sacrificed all the comforts and conveniences of a modern built residence, located in the most attractive section of our city, for one of the meanest constructed houses in Philadelphia, and which is directly upon the line of conveyance whence the flour, sugar, coffee, meats, wines, whiskey, coal, etc., are taken to the almshouse.

Since Mr. Chambers has resided on the line of that high-way, I am pleased to note the fact, that not one person has been detected in delivering underweight in supplies of any kind, and had he resided within a stone's throw, instead of being just double that distance from the paupers' home, the stock of chickens, ducks, turkeys, eggs, butter, early peas, asparagus, and other produce raised on the almshouse farm, would probably not have decreased in valud $1,240.47, as it did during the first year of Mr. Chambers' administration.

It is also agreeable to note that the sharp, untiring watchfulness of President Chambers does not tell upon his physique; if anything he improves under it, as I take him to be 47 pounds stouter than when he was first chosen President of the Poor Board.

POLITICAL.

Since my last letter, the managers of the party have been exceedingly busy in setting up tickets for endorsement at the Erie convention. We have had a number of party leaders here from all sections of the State, endeavoring to cajole the 46 delegates from this city into the support of this or that candidate for Governor or State Treasurer.

Senator Wallace, who was the central figure at the first meeting held at the Girard House, makes no concealment of his preference for Ross, of Bucks county, as his candidate for governor. The most ardent supporters of Ross in this city are "Bill" McMullin, and Lewis C. Cassidy, both delegates to the Convention, and Sam Josephs, a deputy delegate. If Mr. Ross is defeated, he may attribute it to the fact that Cassidy, Josephs, and McMullin have been chosen as the champions to fight his battle. I sympathize with Ross, but he is a young man and from repeated disaster he may learn wisdom.

That wing of the party of which Buckalew, Vaux, Bigler, Black and Dallas, are typical, also had their pow-wow. They agreed that it was absolutely necessary to have a platform, the foundation of which should be gold as a circulating money medium; hostility to Grant's administration the superstructure and confusion to Aleck McClure, and defeat to his candidate, Eli Slifer, for State Treasurer, the ornamentation of the structure.

Col. Noyes and his friend and neighbor, Congressman Mackey, were also with us; these gentlemen are highly indignant at the trick played upon Noyes by Wallace, Dill, McClure & Co., in persuading him to withdraw from the canvass for governor under promise of the Treasurership, and they have determined to set up such a Noyes that I suspect will be anything but agreeable to Ross and Slifer and the friends of those gentlemen.

I have no hesitation in declaring that if the Philadelphia roughs cannot carry their candidate Ross, through successfully, they will get up a row in the Convention, and break it up in disorder. It has been so arranged.

PEACHES.

It seems to me that every small boy and rheumatic elderly lady in our city is engaged in selling peaches. So glutted is our market at times, that hundreds of baskets are thrown from the boats into the river in a rotten condition, there being no sale for them at any price. On Thursday last the Steamship Ohio took out to Liverpool 3,000 crates in a compartment fitted up in the steerage, in such a manner that the temperature is to be kept at 33 degrees during the entire voyage. The air is perfectly dry, and by a mechanical appliance the same air is forced over a small quantity of ice and through the peaches; no outside air being permitted to enter the compartment it is believed the peaches will be sound for any length of time.

THE CENTENNIAL.

The Director General has received the following from A. J. Cassatt, Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

We have received responses from the New York Central, the Erie, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Companies, assenting to the proposed arrangement with reference to the transportation of goods to and from the Centennial Exposition. It is, therefore, understood that regular rates shall be charged on all goods carried to the Exposition for exhibition over the roads controlled by the above named companies, and by this company, and that all unsold goods shall be returned free of freight, and all charges to be prepaid in every case. This arrangement to cover all articles intended for exhibition, as well as all other articles forwarded by exhibitors for their own use in connection with the Exposition.

This arrangement covers between seven and eight thousand miles of railway, including many very important lines.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Our City Almshouse had 3332 inmates on Saturday 21st of August, 4 more than for the same period last year; 162 lightweight pounds of butter were captured from farmers whose scales want regulating, and were taken to the paupers' home; during the month 8209 persons also received relief at their homes from the poor directors, 520 of whom were Americans; 935 were Irish, and the balance were children and a few of other nationalities.

It is not an unusual occurence for the Coroner of our county, to hold a dozen inquests in a single day. The day this letter was mailed he held inquests over the bodies of George Moss, a stranger who stopped at the Ridgway Hotel, and was taken ill just as he commenced to eat supper, and died in a few minutes; also on a colored infant, two days old, found on a vacant lot; also over Thos. DuFraetas, taken sick in a passenger car, who died in five minutes after he was removed therefrom; also over Otelie Simonis, who died suddenly of conjestion of the brain; also on Rich'd Keating, run over by a passenger car; also on F. T. Marter, aged 31 years, who fell dead at his store from heart disease; also on John Sullivan, who died from convulsions caused by cholera morbus, and upon the body of an unknown man, who died while on his way to the Almshouse.

As the Coroner gets $15 for each inquest, and no capital invested, the office is one that I think would just suit.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

MILESBURG, Aug. 30, 1875.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:—Perhaps a few items from Milesburg might not be amiss. Since the great scortch this pleasant village has been on the improve considerably.

Among the best and most substantial improvements, I may mention those of the Messrs. Green, John M. Wagner, and Jonathan Bullock. The first named have erected a fine machine shop and foundry, upon the sites or the burned buildings; also a large brick grist mill to be run by water power. The machine shop and foundry has a frontage of 92 feet, and runs back 60 feet, and is 38 feet in width. The foundry is about ready to run, and the machine shop will be in a couple of weeks. In dimensions, the grist mill is 40x60 feet and three stories high, and will be in charge of that veteran miller, Mr. Wm. Kerlin.

Mr. John M. Wagner, a pushing, go-ahead man, and the boss miller of this section, has erected a large three-story frame steam grist mill, which will be running in a few weeks. Those two mills are the best in the county, and are supplied with the very best and latest machinery in use.

Mr. Jonathan Bullock, who has a good reputation for getting up wagons, buggies etc., is putting up a large building across the bridge to be used as a wagon, carriage, blacksmith, painting and turning shop, is 70x40. These are all fine buildings, creditable alike to the town and the enterprising builders.

I learn that Sheriff Hall contemplates enlarging his hotel, for the accommodation of city visitors, who would spend the summer here. The Sheriff has had a house full of people all season and a great many families were turned away, being unable to get accommodations. Those who remained, expressed themselves as highly pleased both with the place and people.

The mineral spring, a short mile below here, is a great institution. It is pronounced by those who know whereof they speak, to contain curative properties equal, if not superior, to the Bedford water. There is talk of a stock company being formed for the purpose of building a large hotel near by, to be used as a summer resort, and who knows but what Milesburg may yet become famous.

Speaking of old people, Milesburg has several, among whom we may mention Mrs. Polly Shope, widow of Barney Shope, aged 88 years; Mrs. Jones, widow of David Jones, age 87; Andrew Kreamer, age 86; Gen. S. M. Green, age 80; the most active, best preserved and liveliest man for his age in a dozen counties; Jas. Wilson, age 79; Mrs. John Shope, age 78; Mr. John Shope, age 76; Capt. Levy, 75; and Mr. Joseph Green, 75.

The Normal school has been prospering finely here this season. There is at present one hundred scholars in attendance. Prof. Meyer, is very much liked, as is also his able assistant, Mr. Gramley. Mr. Ben Snyder has sold his hotel property in Central City to Mr. Julius Seignonto, for the consideration of $4,200, and now the jolly Julius will be filling glasses when ordered, instead of filling orders for glass. It will require more spirit to run the present business than it did the glass works, and there will be a good many more blow-outs, and perhaps an occasional stop for repairs about court week, but hope not.

Mr. James McClain, the pleasant, popular, obliging depot agent, I hear is about to begin the building of a house for himself, in that far-famed city, called Central. Jim is a capital good fellow. The Doctors here are kept continually on the go (that is some of them), so are the little folks, and will continue so until ripe fruit and truck generally has disappeared.

McClain & Cook, two young men who, a year ago last spring, bought out a dry goods and grocery store in this place, have, by strict attention to business, and fair, square, honorable dealing, built up an immense trade. They are certainly deserving of all the success they are receiving.

Mr. A. T. Boggs, a mighty clever, obliging man, is engaged in the grocery trade, and is handing out the goods as though hard times were scarce. The Else brothers, druggists, are manufacturing several kinds of medicine and shipping them all over the country. Their goods have an excellent reputation.

John Loneberger continues to sell stoves and tinware, and tell funny stories and play jokes on the public, and grows corpulent whilst laughing at the fun, holding the firey end of a cigar to the heel of a sleeping boy, for instance. The boy don't as a general thing enjoy this kind of fun. Rev. G. W. Miller, lectured in the M. E. Church at this place, on Saturday evening last. Subject: "Love and Lovers." It was listened to with marked attention. The greatest invention we have seen for a long time, is what is called Stanburg's Patent Separator, for separating coal and all impurities from iron ore. Mr. Irwin Morris, of this place, is agent for the sale of the machine. Politics is beginning to rage. Let her rage; we hope the other man may win. Brown and Pennypacker will poll a pretty large vote in this place.

Judge Orvis has been thining out Bellefonte's population pretty considerably. Only think of it, ten criminals sent to the Penitentiary, and two churches sold by Sheriff, all in one week. Call back a few missionaries and let them tussle awhile with the home heathen.

It happened near here a few evenings ago, I am told, Paxton had been to town and reached home about dusk. He had a lame ankle, and hunted around until he thought he had found the liniment, and bathed that sore ankle with it for about fifteen minutes. Mrs. P. came in looking for the soothing syrup for the sick baby. She poured a tea-spoonful into the little one, and then that child laid aside all other business and settled down to a real old-fashioned yell. Mrs. P. was not long in discovering the mistake. Paxton had rubbed a whole bottle of soothing syrup upon his ankle, and Mrs. P. had dosed the infant with red hot liniment. Unfortunately for Paxton, he jawed back. The next day after this occurrance, my informant says he saw Paxton seated on a candle-box behind the wood-shed, with a pocket looking-glass in his hand examining the bare spots upon his head, and arranging the the plaster on his nose, and he heard Mrs. P. say to a neighbor woman: "Do, what did I do? Well, now, you bet I made him howl like a hound shut up in a red hot bake oven, and I guess he won't make any more such mistakes as long as his name is Ephraim Paxton." Paxton is now arrayed on the side of Brown and Pennypacker.

A couple of citizens of this place concluded to cut down a great lot of willows and alder bushes, on a certain day not long ago, that being the proper time, as the sign was just right. They ground up their scythes and axes and went forth to slash and cut down those things that cumbereth the earth. The day was a dreadful hot one, and the sweat did roll down in—I was going to say torrents, but in this full will do. But they heeded not the heat, but cut and hacked until every bush of an objectional nature lay withering at their feet. Then they drove home and made the awful discovery that they had made a mistake in the day. They were just one week too early. What was to be done? It wouldn't do to plant the plaguey things again. There was a little fun created by the slight mistake, and if they, the men refered to, don't get mad about divulging the secret, we'll agree to contradict the whole story, whenever it is necessary.

RUSTIC.

Dauchy & Co.,

VEGETINE

Purifies the Blood, Renovates and Invigorates the Whole System.

Its Medical Properties are

ALTERATIVE, TONIC, SOLVENT, AND DIURETIC.

VEGETINE is made exclusively from the juices of carefully selected barks, roots and herbs, and so strongly concentrated that it will effectually eradicate from the system every tint of SCROFULA, SCROFULOUS HUMOR, TUMORS, CANCER, CANCEROUS HUMOR, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, SYPHILITIC DISEASES, CANKER, FAINTNESS AT THE STOMACH, and all diseases that arise from impure blood. SCIATICA, INFLAMATORY and CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, GOUT AND SPINAL COMPLAINTS, can only be effectually cured through the blood.

For ULCERS and ERUPTIVE DISEASES of the Skin, Pustules, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Tetter, Scaldhead and Ringworm, VEGETINE has never failed to effect a permanent cure.

For PAINS IN THE BACK, KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, DROPSY, FEMALE WEAKNESS, LEUCORRHŒA, arising from internal ulceration, and uterine diseases and GENERAL DEBILITY, Vegetine acts directly upon the causes of these complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the secretive organs, allays inflammation, cures ulceration and regulates the bowels.

For CATARRH, DYSPEPSIA, HABITUAL COSTIVENESS, PALPITATION OF THE HEART, HEADACHE, PILES, NERVOUSNESS and GENERAL PROSTRATION OF THE NERVOUS SYSTEM, no medicine has ever given such perfect satisfaction as the Vegetine. It purifies the blood, cleanses all the organs, and possesses a controlling power over the nervous system.

The remarkable cures affected by Vegetine have induced many physicians and apothecaries whom we know to prescribe and use it in their own families.

In fact, Vegetine is the best remedy yet discovered for the above diseases, and is the only reliable Blood Purifier yet placed before the public.

Are not the many testimonials given for the different complaints satisfactory to any reasonable person suffering from any disease mentioned above, that they can be cured? Read the different testimonials given, and no one can doubt. In many of these cases the persons say that their pain and suffering cannot be expressed, as in cases of scrofula, where, apparently, the whole body was one mass of corruption. If Vegetine will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood: and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or of climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the Vegetine will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. Vegetine is composed of roots, barks and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and is perfectly safe to give to an infant. Do you need it? Do not hesitate to try it. You will never regret it.

WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT

VEGETINE

FOR TEN TIMES ITS COST.

The great benefit I have received from the use of Vegetine induces me to give my testimony in its favor. I believe it to be not only of great value for restoring the health, but a preventive of diseases peculiar to the spring and summer seasons. I would not be without it for ten times its cost. Attorney and General Agent for Massachusetts of the Craftsmen's Life Assurance Company, No. 49 Sears' Building, Boston, Mass.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

St. Nicholas for September.

The September number of ST. NICHOLAS contains a variety of very pleasant and interesting contributions, along with the usual fine array of pictures. On one of the first pages is Rachel Pomeroy's cheery little poem of "Three Times One," and there are other dainty compositions in rhyme—two of them beautifully illustrated by Miss Jessie Curtis. Of descriptive articles, the number has a full instalment, bringing together for us in one article a collection of birds whose plumage is entirely white; giving us in other an account of "Some Queer Dishes," which are served in Oriental countries; and in still a third, as companion sketch, a description and picture of a peculiar Mesopotamian boat or "Gooffah," which will open the childrens' eyes in wonder. In the same line, too, are Mrs. Treat's glimpse through a microscope at the "Cyclops," and Mr. Riding's account of "A London Child's Holiday," spent in a steamboat trip up the Thames and into the suburbs of the great city.

There is also a full budget of stories—among the rest a delicate fanciful one by Emma Burt, entitled "A Squirrel's Stratagem," and a thrilling narative of a brave woman's unaded contest with a bear, which is vouched for as true There is also a suggestive story of a railway journey, a very charming biography of a very "Short-Lived Family," and an amusing colloquy between a dog and a deer resulting to the disadvantage of poor "Bucko," and well illustrated by the frontispiece.

The serial stories grow in interest and excitement as they approach their conclusions, and Mr. Trowbridge gives us a vivid description of a tornado on the Western prairies, which is also graphically pictured in an illustration by W. L. Sheppard.

Finally "Jack-in-the Pulpit," the "Letterbox," and "Riddle-Box," close the number, as usual, with their eight or ten pages of information and amusement.

Bellefonte Markets.

BELLEFONTE, Sept. 1, 1875.

The weather has cleared up since our last report, which is very favorable for seeding, and the usual weekly visits of farmers show a falling off as compared with the average.

WHEAT—The offerings are light. There is some old in first hands, but it is being firmly held for higher figures. The dealers and millers are very slow to invest in new, and the consequence is that there are no inducements offered to farmers to sell.

CORN AND RYE—There is nothing doing—none offering and none inquired for.

OATS—The new crop is more or less damaged, and prices range according to quality.

HAY—There is very little hay being offered for sale, and prices are irregular. Many of our farmers have fine crops of Hungarian grass, but we see it stated that ripe seed will injure stock if fed to them in its natural state.

Philadelphia Market Report.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

MONDAY, August 30, 1875.

REMARKS—There has been no perceptible improvement in any department of trade, and the market wears an unusually dull appearance for the close of August. The merchants are remarkably conservative in all their operations, and country buyers manifest no disposition to purchase except for immediate wants. Prices of many descriptions of manufactured goods continue below the cost of production, and some of the woolen and cotton establishments contemplate closing their doors at an early day. It is universally conceded that the expenses of conducting business are out of proportion to incomes, and but few mercantile establishments are doing much better than paying their way.

WHEAT—The market has shown rather more vitality. The export trade has been very light, but the millers have purchased rather more freely, and mostly of prime lots, which are very scarce. There have been some orders here from neighboring markets. Sales of 19,600 bu Penna. old Red, good and prime at $1.45@1.48; 3,600 bu do do on secret terms; 3,000 bu Western new do common, at $1.20; 400 bu Penna new and old do, at $1.30. Prices of Spring are nominal. To-day the market for prime closed firm, with light stocks. New is quiet, mostly in poor condition. 35,000 bu was shipped to Liverpool per "Ohio," and 50,000 bu to Antwerp per "Vaderland." Receipts for week 105,900 bu.

RYE—Comes in slowly. We quote Jersey and Delaware at 90@92c, and Penna. at 95c. Receipts for the week 200 bu.

CORN—The offerings have been very moderate, and seven-eighths of that heretofore received from the West has been out of condition—some of it badly damaged. The latter can only be put off at relatively low figures, while prime commands full prices. There is a good demand for local consumption and coastwise shipment, but the export movement has been extremely moderate. Sales of 24,000 bu Penna. and Western Yellow, in the cars and grain depot, including two cargoes afloat, at 84@85c; 17,000 bu do do at 85c f.o.b; 23,200 bu do do, fair and good, from cars and grain depot, at 80@83c; 33,000 bu Western mixed, in the cars and grain depot, at 83@84c according to quality and condition; 10,000 bu do do at 83½@84c, f. o. b.; and 10,000 bu unsound do do at 72@75c. To-day the market closed steady with sales of 1,200 bu Pa. Yellow, prime, in the cars and from the grain depot, at 84@85c; 800 bu Western do do do, at 84c; and some out of condition, at 80@82c. Receipts for the week 125,600 bu.

OATS—Supplies of new crop have been coming forward freely, but four-fifths are stained or in a damaged condition, and command relatively low figures. Choice old white have been in good request, but other kinds are neglected. Sales of 9,000 bu old Western White, prime, at 70@75c; 3,500 do mixed at 68@70c; 34,000 bu new Delaware and Western do at 40@45c for stained and damaged, and 50@52c for common up to 60 @62 for choice; 1,400 bu Delaware White, good, at 47c; 700 bu do do, poor quality, at 45c; and 45,000 bu Western, to arrive, on secret terms. To-day the market closed quiet with sales of 700 bu old Western White at 72c; 700 bu Penna old and new mixed at 63c; 5,000 bu Illinois and Ohio new White, good, at 50@56. Receipts for the week 80,400 bu.

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

THE GREAT INDIAN DIURETIC.

INFINITELY SUPERIOR TO BUCHU.

Nine tenths of the human family suffer, directly or indirectly, at one time or other, from diseases or irregularities of the generative system, while the victims of indiscretion, and of quack treatment, are comparatively numerous.

The idea that patients cannot treat themselves successfully in these cases, has long ago been exploded. A good and reliable medicine, prepared by an experienced physician, from the original Indian Recipe, that is guaranteed to effect a can be as safely relied upon as the prescription of the most skillful practitioner. Such a medicine is the celebrated

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

Full directions accompany each bottle, and if they are carefully followed, a quick and permanent cure is guaranteed. Price $2.00 per bottle.

THE CHEROKEE INJECTION, should always be used in conjunction with the Remedy for both incipient and obstinate cases of Gonorrhœa. Price $1.00 per bottle.

CHEROKEE CURE

for seminal weakness (spermatorrhœa), is a simple vegetable medicine that was used for many years in the practice of the physician who first gave the remedy to the public. It has effected cures that would scarcely be credited except on ocular evidence of the fact. Full directions, with pamphlet containing all particulars of symptoms, treatment, &c., accompany each bottle. Price $2.00 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

Heimstreet's Hair Restorative,

OR INIMITABLE HAIR COLORING.

NOT A DYE.—Heimstreet's "Hair Coloring is not a Dye, and its operation is not by any chemical effect, but by a natural restoration of the glands, thus giving the hair the color it originally had.

NATURALNESS.—When the hair is dyed, its color is leaden, hued and unnatural, but when restored by HEIMSTREET'S HAIR COLORING, its appearance is so perfectly natural that no one can detect the use of any Restorative.

STAINLESS.—While the Restorative acts promptly on the hair, it leaves no stain or mark whatever on the skin. It is composed of ingredients that form a perfect dressing as well as a coloring, so that no oils, &c., are necessary.

THIS MOST EFFECTIVE of all the Hair Restorers is for sale by all druggists at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Numerous certificates from those who have used it are in the possession of the proprietors.

PARK'S BALSAM

OR

WILD CHERRY AND TAR.

BALSAM.—Nothing is more soothing to the irritated membranes than the pure BALSAMS of which this medicine is composed.

WILD CHERRY.—The true bark of Wild Cherry is an unfailing specific for all throat and pectoral diseases.

TAR.—The wonderful healing properties of Tar when united with the other ingredients, render PARK'S BALSAM the most efficient Cough Medicine ever offered to the public.

CONSUMPTION.—The many cases of Consumption that have been cured justify us in the assertion that it is the very best medicine for that disease ever discovered.

CERTIFICATES OF CURES.

STEPHEN FISK, of New York, says his daughter had consumption, and terbucles had formed in her lungs. He was induced to try Park's Balsam, which effected a speedy cure.

T. EDWARD FLEET, of Brooklyn says, I think it is the best medicine for affections of the lungs I ever used.

G. S. FANCHER, of New York says, I feel fully persuaded that Park's Balsam has saved my life.

EGYPTIAN

Rat and Vermin Destroyer

FOR EXTERMINATING RATS, MICE, WATER BUGS, ROUCHES, RED ANTS, &c.

STRENGTH.—When a Rat tastes the Egyptian Destroyer, his death warrant is signed, sure. It cannot fail to kill. It also creates great thirst, and the rat will search for water out of doors, and not die in his hole, to cause a stench that cannot be got out.

ATTRACTIVENESS.—Rats are the shrewdest of vermin. It is hard to get them to eat poison. An ingredient in the Egyptian Destroyer is a perfect bait, and they are attracted rather than freightened be it. "Rats (not children) cry for it.

KEEPING SOFT.—People know how the ordinary Rat Pastes dry up and become useless, causing annoyance and loss. The Egyptian Destroyer is fully warranted to keep soft, fresh and effective in any climate for years.

SURE DEATH.—The Egyptian Destroyer kills every time. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials are now in the hands of the proprietors, substantiating its great merits as the best preparation for destroying Vermin in the world. Be sure and ask for the "Egyptian," and take no other.

Put up in large glass bottles. Price, 25 cts. Sold by Druggists everywhere.

The Season for Improvements.

The best season for making permanent improvements upon a farm comes in with the ending of the earlier harvests and before the proper fall work is entered upon. So far as repairs and improvements upon buildings, especially barns and stables, are concerned, the work can be best done early in the season before the annual crops of hay and grain are stored. This arrangement seems to make a suitable division of the time of the farmer and his hired help; as before haying he can put his buildings in order, and after haying and the grain harvest, can turn his attention and forces to improvements upon the field and pasture, or upon fences, &c. The spring is also the best season to paint outside woodwork, so that this plan seems not only suitable so far as help is concerned, but natural so far as the best time in the year for repairing and rebuilding woodwork is concerned. Moreover, the weather in early autumn is most propitious for out door work—for man as well as animals—and more perhaps can be accomplished in a day then, than at any other period of the season. The harvest is not yet through to be sure, but for the purpose of directing the thoughts of our readers to those things which will need to be done upon the farm this fall, we deem it best to be somewhat in advance of the actual time of performing the same, that they may be casting their eyes about in different directions to find what is most needful to be accomplished. The progressive farmer, who is carrying on his business with an eye to permanency and profit, will constantly be bettering his farm, and adding to its value, by improvements of a permanent nature. These should be laid out in a systematic plan, reaching into the future; and so far as possible, work each year should be done in such a way, as finally to compass, in a thorough manner, the wished-for result. In this way the clearing of a rough lot, the building of a heavy piece of wall, the renovating of an exhausted field, the draining of a lot of land, the improvement of an old pasture, and similar jobs, can be entered upon and carried out year by year, until completed; and by following it persistently and systematically, labor will be economized and the farm permanently improved.

And it may be said here that the present, instead of being a time to drop operations of this nature, is in fact, just the time to enter upon, and carry them forward with more energy than ever. If it is true that times are somewhat dull and business poor—it is also true that times will revive again, and business assume its usual activity. Now is just the time to make improvements. Labor is plenty and wages low, and when men are willing to work, no better time for entering upon improvements can be fonnd. This remark applies with as much force to municipal as to private and farm improvements; and we doubt if towns and cities could do a better thing than to set at work the large numbers of men who are unemployed, in performing needed improvements that will conduce to the public good. In large towns and cities, streets can be paved, sewers and drains built, parks laid out, and the work on them carried forward, water works for the supply of cities and for fire purposes constructed, and similar enterprises projected, the benefits of which will reach into the future and make for the public good. In some places work of this kind is being done; could it not be entered upon in others to the future benefit of municipalities, and to the present benefit of a large number of deserving men who would be willing to work for reasonable wages?

Of two things we are certain: improvements of the nature of our Pennsylvania farms are sure to be good investments; and men generally who have heretofore pursued occupations where they have been consumers instead of producers, but return in large numbers to the occupation of farmers—TO THE RAISING OF BREAD! There will then be better times, less commercial failures, greater general prosperity, more active business of a legitimate nature, and far more contentment and happiness among our people.

A CHINESE young lady is an applicant for a teacher's place in one of the public schools of San Francisco. She insists that she can "snatchee small boy bal-headed allee same Melican mis."

The Farmer's Wealth.

Manure is to the farmer what capital is to the merchant. Without it his labor will be in vain, his drafts dishonerod, and his soul discouraged. A discouraged man is not good for much. It is not every one that can afford to buy the trade fertilizers, and these are too often without merit. They are to be purchased with caution and judgement. In the matter of manure we believe almost wholly in home manufacture, and are persuaded there is no branch of farming entitled to more attention than this. We can hardly name a substance out of which the earth with its secret chemistry cannat extract strength and nourishment. The earth needs food as much as the ox. Rich fields are well fed. The virgin earth manured by the decaying vegetation of ages yields fifty bushels of wheat to the acre, but man soon exhausts it. We take from the hand of God and the bosom of the earth mercies untold, for which we forget to make returns. Ingratitude dries up generosity. The race robs the earth and passes on. Sections which were once prolific now are barren. This continent, with Eastern immigration, is once more being skimmed. We first sell the forests and then extract from the first few inches of earth and move on. The duty of return is seldom present with us. The ashes of the forest are sent to the merchants to bleach the calicos of Fall River and Manchester.

The material for making manure is most abundant. Nature cries to us to be wise in thr application of the deaying things about us. The very weeds of the highways can be made available. An old shoe or big bone will tell in the orchards for twenty five years. The wash-tub of the kitch en, if rightly used, is a fountain of nourishment. Some stones, clays, and mucks are convertible into food for the ground. The manure of a well fed animal is worth twice as much as that of one poorly fed, whose owner perhaps lays out in whiskey what he should lay out in fodder. Every farm has on and within itself the powers of recuperation, and if man will only appropriate these secrets, there will be fewer discouraged farmers. Knowledge and rflection, jndgment and industry, can increase the yield of farms almost indefinately. The key to agricultural improvement in other countries has been root crops and clover fed to good stock on the farm; and the same key will open the door of prosperity here. Beef and mutton, hides and wool, butter and cheese, poultry and eggs, are always in demand, and, unlike grain crops, producing them leaves the land better. Nay, keeping live stock in proper proportions enables the farm to produce more and better grain in a series of years than it could do if it were devoted to nothing but grain culture. Wherever butter and cheese factories abound the land bdcomes much more beautiful and productive. Is there no lesson in this fact?

THE SABBATH SCHOOL.

LESSON FOR AUGUST.

THE BREAD OF LIFE.

JOHN VI., 47 to 58.

Here we have the central idea of Christianity brought out in one of those bold figures so congenial to the oriental mind, which our Lord delighted to use. He calls Himself the bread of life, which all must eat in order to live, and adds that He gives this bread for the life of the world. Observe: It is not His teachings, but Himself; not Christianity, but Christ that is the life of believers; though Christ includes His teachings, and Christ includes Christianity. He puts himself here as the short and comprehensive designation for all that he did and taught and suffered for the human race.

BREAD.

Now let us examine a little the force and application of the symbol He selects to represent Himself. Bread is so universally regarded as the staff of life that it may without undue stretching represent the support of the physical life of the the human race, and indeed in the Scripture the word is used for all kinds of sustenance. So far is this carried that the Canaanites are called bread for the Israelites—not because they were to be literally eaten, but because their spoil was to furnish sustenance. Bread, then, as the short word for all kinds of physical sustenance, is a most appropriate figure for Christ, who supplies all kinds of spiritual sustenance.

BREAD ASSIMILATED.

In a physiological point of view the symbol is also singularly apt. The bread we ate yesterday is a portion of our body to day. It was dissolved into a milky fluid by digestion, the nutritious portion was absorbed by thousands of minute tubes, which conveyed it to one large tube to be thrown into the blood, and after incorporation therewith to be carried in a very short time to every part of the body to repair waste or produce growth. Thus the bread is assimilated to and incorporated with the whole body. In like manner, when Christ is fed upon spiritually, He is incorporated with the whole soul and mind, and in this sense He is in the Christian, as well as in the sense of the indwelling of his Holy Spirit. Now observe: We need daily bread. One meal will not serve for a life-time or for a year or for a whole day. And so it is with Christ, the bread of life. We must feed on Him daily and often er than once a day in order to maintain spiritual life and especially in order to growth.

This view of the figure, be it perceived, completely excludes the sacramentarian idea that Christ's body is only fed upon in the Lord's Supper. It should indeed be specially eaten there in a spiritual sense, but it is eaten whenever and wherever we feed upon his words and promises, or look to him in faith as our substitute and Saviour. It would be a poor way of feeding on Christ to be confined to the Lord,s Supper once a quarter; or once in two months, or once a week, or or even once a day; and it would be a still poorer way to let the daily feeding on Christ be done by a Priest, reserving the feeding of the laity for once a year at Easter, as is the case with multitudes of Roman Catholics in good standing.

It is a poor carnal idea, as Christ Himself indicates in this chapter, to take His sublime command to eat His flesh and drink His blood in a literal sense. When the disciples murmured against this hard saying, Jesus replied to them, "It is the spirit that quickeneth (that giveth life); the flesh profiteth nothing; the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life."

SERIOUS MISTAKES.

Just as many by understanding Christ's words to Nicodemus literally, "Except a man be born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God," stumble into baptismal regeneration, so many stumble into transubstantiation and the mass by taking Christ's words here literally, "Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, ye have no life in you."

MANNA.

Your fathers ate manna in the wilderness and died. The Jews called the manna of the wilderness bread from heaven, with much truth, for it is called in the Psalms angels' food, but it did not produce or ensure a continuation of life. Korah, Dathan, and Abiram perished miserably, though they had eaten it for years, and the whole congregation, who were men when they come out of Egypt strewed the wilderness with their bones, many of them, it is to be feared, perishing eternally. It is Christ, therefore, who is the true bread that came down from heaven, "that a man may eat thereof and not die." "If a man eat of this bread he shall live forever," and by man here is meant male and female, old and young. There is no passage of scripture so rich in promises of eternal life as this, but they are all conditioned on one thing, namely, feeding on Christ.

Let us see, therefore, that we do so, not in a literal, carnal sense, which, even were it possible, would profit nothing, but in a spiritual sense, as all Christ's figures are to be understood.

CHILDREN MAY FEED ON CHRIST.

Even children should understand when they are studyiug and trying to understand and act upon Christ's words and lessons that by believing on Him as their Saviour they are feeding upon him, and may apply to them all the promises in this sublime passage.

NOTES.

Observe: Believing on or in Christ, the last being Alford's rendering of verse 47, is a very different thing from believing about him. Nearly everybody believes something or many things about Christ, but it is only true Christians that believe in Christ—that is, trust or confide in him.

Observe also that in order to eat profitably there must be appetite. "Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness." We should long for Christ as the hungry man does for food, and His word should be as our daily bread, sought with regularly recurring desire. According as disciples feed on Christ they become strong Christians—strong to work and strong to suffer, and in order to be a growing Christian more and more of this divine bread is needed. Food, however, does no good unless digested, and any amount of study or learning about Christ that is not spiritually digested and assimilated will serve no good purpose. Those who continue hearing the word without self-application only become gospel hardened.

Observe once more that, in order to a healthy appetite, there must be healthy exercise. Christians must work in the Lord's vineyard in order to have the necessary appetite for feeding on Christ.

Indian Tradition.

Here is the Yute account of the creation: "In the beginning the earth was covered with mists. You could not see before you. The Great Spirit took his bow and arrows and shot—shot so well that he scattered the mists. The earth became visable to him, but there were no men upon it. Then he took clay, fashioned a man, and sent him to bake. Man came out white; the fire had not been strong enough. The Great Spirit began his work again, and this time the man came out quite black; he had remained too long in the oven. It was necessary to try a third time. The experemint at length succeeded, and man came out done to a turn; he was the redskin, the most perfect of human types."

A CHILD KILLED BY A ROOSTER.—A child of Mr. A. Langley, who lives two miles from Gadsden, Ala., while playing in the yard, was attacked by a rooster, and knocked down and spurred several times in the face and head before the mother could rescue it. Dr. Ewing, who was called in, found that one stroke of the spur had penetrated the brain. The little sufferer, eighteen months old, lingered in great agony for two days, when death came to its relief. Dr. Ewing says that, during a practice of over twenty years, he never met with or heard of such a case before, and it is, perhaps, the first in the history of the world.

A novel civil rights suit has been commenced at Washington. A white man rented a room at a lodging house kept by a colored man. The room was secured in the absence of the landlord. When the lodger returned at night for his room the landlord refused him admission and informed him that no white man should lodge in his place. Suit has been entered against the lanlord for violation of the Civil Rights bill.

DURING a dense fog, a Mississippi steam-boat took a landing. A traveler, anbious to go ahead, came to the unperturbed manager of the wheel and asked why the boat stopped. "Too much fog; can't see the river." "But you can see the stars overhead." "Yes," replied the urbane pilot, "but until the biler busts we ain't goin' that way." The passenger went to bed satisfied.

Kind words are jewels beyond price, powerful to heal the heart, and to make the weighted-spirit glad.

TASTELESS MEDICINES.

A prominent New York physician lately complained to DUNDAS DICK & CO. about their Sandalwood Oil Capsules, stating that sometimes they cured miraculously, but that a patient of his had taken them without effect. On being informed that several imitations were sold, he inquired and found his patient had not been taking DUNDAS DICK & CO'S.

What happened to this physician may have happened to others, and DUNDAS DICK & CO. take this method of protecting physicians, druggists and themselves, and preventing Oil of Sandalwood from coming into disrepute.

PHYSICIANS who once prescribe the Capsules will continue to do so, for they contain the Pure Oil in the best and cheapest form.

DUNDAS DICK & CO. use more Oil of Sandalwood than all the Wholesale and Retail Druggists and Perfumers in the United States combined, and this is the sole reason why the pure oil is sold Cheaper in their Capsules than in any other form.

OIL OF SANDALWOOD is fast superseding every other remedy, sixty Capsules only being required to insure a safe and certain cure in six or eight days. From no other medicine can this result be had.

DUNDAS DICK & CO.'S SOFT CAPSULES solve the problem, long considered by eminent physicians, of how to avoid the nausea and disgust experienced in swallowing, which are well known to detract from, if not destroy, the good effects of many valuable remedies.

Soft Capsules are put up in tin-foil and neat boxes, thirty in each, and are the only Capsules prescribed by physicians.

Tasteless Medicines.—Castor Oil and many other nauseous medicines can be taken easily and safely in Dundas Dick & Co's Soft Capsules. No taste. No smell.

☞ These were the only Capsules admitted to the last Paris Exposition.

Send for circular to 35 Wooster Street, N. Y.

☞ Sold at all Drug Stores Here.

MEDICAL.

Wright's Rejuvenating Elixer.

For the restoration of Nature's forces. It gives new life and vigor to the aged, and causes the blood of youth to course through the veins. It effectually cures Impotency, Palpitation of the Heart, Loss of Muscular Power, Low Spirits, Disorganization of the Generative Organs, and all the train of ills that follow in the path of the transgressor of Nature's laws. Price $2 per bottle.

It will be readily understood that in the brief space afforded by the advertising columns of a public print, it is impossible to give all particulars of the diseases that may be cured by the CHEROKEE MEDICINES. That they are destined to become immensely popular is plainly obvious in consequence of their

GREAT INTRINSIC MERIT.

The pamphlet and circulars that accompany the medicines give all the information which cannot be given here, and the remedies may be had of any respectable druggist.

"Unquestionably the Best and Cheapest Fashion Journal ever published in America."

THE

"DOMESTIC" MONTHLY

A JOURNAL OF

Fashion, Literature, and Art.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"How a Journal of Fashion can combine fashion and literature at very low terms is well shown by this periodical. The May number, besides a colored Fashion Plate, has thirty-six pages, profusely illustrated, on the fashions of costumes for ladies and children, seasonable fabrics, trimmings, millinery, lingerie, coiffures, and domestic art, and yet with all this there is room for poems and tales, by popular authors, notices of new books, etc., and the price of all this matter is only $1.50 per annum. Take it all in all, we know of no periodical of which readers get so much for their money as those of the 'DOMESTIC' MONTHLY."—N. Y. Evening Mail.

"If one wishes the latest information concerning the latest fashions, the 'DOMESTIC' MONTHLY is ready with the intelligence, aided by abundant illustrations. It does not, however, neglect current literature, as it contains poems, a serial story, some interesting miscellany, and art notes."—N. Y. World.

"It combines literary merit with a great deal of information in regard to ladies' costumes, fabrics, toilettes, etc. It is plentifully illustrated in its fashion articles, and its list of contributions is deserving of much praise."—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

"A far better periodical than many of the so-called weekly papers."—Terrebonne Republican, Houma, La.

"One of the best Fashion Magazines that comes to our office."—Clarendon Press, Manning, S. C.

"The most delightful of the Fashion Magazines."—American Standard, Jersey City, N. J.

"We can heartily recommend it."—Fort Madison (Iowa) Democrat.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER.

Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation, which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR-DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines.

Bellefonte and County.

The Next Election.

The following points in regard to voting should be borne in mind, and attended to at once:

The new constitution forbids all persons from voting unless they have been assessed at least two months, and paid their taxes at least one month before the date of the election. No one of foreign birth can vote, unless, in addition to the above, he has been naturalized a month previous to the election.

The date of holding the next election is Tuesday, November 2.

Wednesday, September 1, is the last day on which voters can be assessed.

Friday, October 1, is the last day on which they can pay taxes.

Friday, October 1, is the last day for taking out naturalization papers.

Each of these important duties can be performed at any time before the days mentioned. Let our friends see to it, that the matter is attended to before it is too late.

——A camp-meeting in operation at Millheim, attracted a large attendance on Sunday last. There was a good representation from Bellefonte.

——The Bellefonte ladies are now wearing a new kind of hat, which is black in color, and looks, both fore and aft, like the bill of a snipe.

——Col. Wm. B. Mann expressed himself highly pleased with Bellefonte Library rooms, and promises a handsome gift of books.

——Constans Commandery Knights Templer are already making preparations to attend the Centennial next summer in a body.

——The inspection of the Military at Lock Haven, to-morrow, by General Beaver and staff promises to be an interesting affair. The troops went into camp on Monday last.

——We will publish the "Red Pepper Story" for sure next week. Our Democratic friends should know whom they are elevating to office. We don't intimidate.

——The attendance of students at the Pennsylvania State College, at the session opened on Friday last, is about fifty per cent. in advance of last session.

——The court has decreed that the voters of Harris township, shall hold an election on the 12th day of October next, to decide whether or not a new township shall be created out of portions of Harris and Benner townships.

——The construction of the new Methodist church still continues. The second story has been reached by the brick-layers, and they will soon be ready for the roof. When completed, the two churches, Presbyterian and Methodist, will be very close together.

——A young lady, whose nom de plume is "Helen," has written us a long anonymous letter, sympathizing with us in the loss of our hat, which we chronicled in these columns a week or two ago. She is forward enough to call us "Daniel," and presumes amazingly on a short acquaintance, while her letter doesn't amount to much.

——Father McElvaine, late pastor of St. John's Catholic Church, of this place has, by request, published a certificate setting forth that he had joined in matrimony John C. Stone and Mary E. Apt. Stone denied that he ever married Miss Apt and went and married a female in Renovo, but now he will be Apt to find out that such things are not permitted by law.

ROBBED.—On Wednesday of last week, Mr. Peter Reiter, of Eagleville, was robbed of papers valued at several thousand dollars, while walking on East Park St., Lock Haven. Mr. Reiter is an old man, and appears to have been robbed by one Peter Griffin, who had been in company with him during the afternoon and evening. Griffin is a bad egg, having a few days previous been bailed out of jail where he was awaiting trial for committing a rape. He was recommitted.

——The "School in the Mountains" will open for the fall session on Wednesday next, September 8th. Mr. Hughes will as usual be assisted by his able corps of teachers, among them Miss Jennie Gehret and Prof. J. M. Duncan.

——David Lohr is very much exercised because we criticised him when he was a candidate for Sheriff. If David would stay at home and attend to legitimate pursuits there are a few people left who would not find out that he is so much of a lunatic.

——The most substantial pavement in town, is the new one laid last week in front of the residence of Col. D. G. Bush. It is made of cement and is laid in large blocks that could easily be mistaken for granite. The base upon which the elegant iron fence surrounding the grounds rests is made of the same material.

——The patriotic citizen who is around with a subscription paper raising funds to buy him a new uniform, like the rest of the boy's in company "E," refused to sweep off the pavement—a five minute's job—for a dollar, on the grounds that it was unbecoming for a soldier. In military pursuits sometimes there is more glory than greenbacks.

——For our court proceedings, of which will be found elsewhere, we are indebted to John H. Vosburg, Esq., the accomplished court reporter. Mr. V. is a pleasant and companionable gentleman, a good lawyer, and occasionally finds time to court the muses, having published a year or two ago a volume of delightful poems, a few copies of which are for sale, we believe, at the book stores in town.

——The Registration assesors will be in session at the Commissioners' office on the first and second of September, Wednesday and Thursday, between ten o'clock A. M. and three P. M., and from six to nine P.M. Every Republican voter in Bellefonte, who is not assessed, should attend to it on one of these days, as it is the last opportunity, and unless you are registered you cannot vote. Every voter should see to it that he has the freeman's right to vote. This notice is intended for Bellefonte, but we hope Republicans throughout the county will see that they are registered.

——Mr. Simon Loeb will sell a very valuable lot of household furniture at auction, on Saturday, Sept. 4. The furniture Mr. Loeb offers, is first class, most of it having been made to order especially for himself. It is made upon honor—no shoddy stuff made for show and profit alone. Any one wanting good furniture will do well to attend this sale, as there will surely be a chance for a bargain. Everything is offered at this sale that is needed in a well furnished house. Persons knowing Mr. Loeb, will know that he would have his house elegantly furnished, and with the very best in the market.

LAST NOTICE.—Notice is hereby given that the Borough taxes of 1873, remaining unpaid, must be settled forthwith. I have settle for all the taxes on the '73 Duplicate, in advance, for all delinquents. As my term of service as Tax-collector is about to end, I must close up the books. The plea of hard times and scarcity of money will no longer satisfy the demands made upon me. I have been as lenient as it is possible for a Collector to be. Now the taxes must come. I will proceed immediately according to law to force collection of all taxes now unpaid.

DANIEL MCGINLEY.

AUGUST FLOWER.—The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent. of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects such as Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heart-burn, Water-brash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue, disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c., go to the Drug Store of F. P. Green and J. Zeller & Son and get a 75-cent, bottle, or a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Try it. Two doses will relieve you.

v7-n30-1y-eow

CAPTAIN H. C. BEAMER.—This gentleman, whose name was prominently before the Convention last Wednesday for Sheriff, and who received next to the highest number of votes, therefore, is one of the best Republicans in the State. Right on the heels of his defeat, and when a motion was made to have Lieutenant Glenn's nomination made unanimous, he arose and seconded the motion, stating that he would do everything in his power to elect him. This is what we call an honorable action. The gallant Captain had been fairly beaten in the contest, and like an open-hearted, generous man, as he is, he accepted the situation like a man. He did not go sulveiling and whining around, threatening to run independent or go to "Modocing," but he told the Convention that he had been fairly beaten and he was ready to turn in, heart and hand, and battle for the success of the whole ticket. Our party will not forget Capt. Beamer for his manliness, and may yet find occasion to reward him as he deserves.

PERSONALS.—Rev. James Wilson, son of Mr. Peter Wilson, of Pennsvalley, has been visiting in different parts of the county for a week or more past, and preached at Centre Hill last Sunday. He is preaching regularly in New York City.

—Governor Curtin spent last Sunday at Minniqua.

—Mr. Simon Loeb, of the firm of Loeb, May & Loeb, advertises his household goods for sale. His house is filled with elegant furniture and those in need should attend the sale on Saturday next.

—Mr. Daniel Garman has returned from Bedford, much improved in health and spirits.

—Hon. John B. Linn and Major Harry C. Forster, Centre county's representatives at the State Capital, have been at home for the last week.

——Best cigars in town, can be bought at Green's drug store.

——Boys and girls hunt up your dusty school books, and get ready to go to school next Monday.

——Good gracious! how quiet it has been since last Thursday; the moral effect of last week's criminal court has been most salutary.

——Loeb, May & Loeb have received an additional stock of goods from the city and every shelf in their store is filled to repletion.

——The citizens of Harris township will never live together as a peaceful, homogenious people, until the township is divided into two election districts.

——That Democratic dodge of inducing temperance Republicans to vote against their party by favoring Browne, is departing like the mist before the sun.

——After listening to an absorbing sermon and a first-class opera by an amateur troupe on Sunday evening, we are constrained to remark that, among high church people, "whatever is is rite."

——"Team," "Team." All right, keep on your blasted needle-head and call every man with a gun on his shoulders a "team." It doesn't hurt anybody 'round here, and perhaps it makes you feel good.

——One day from to-day we'll find out who the Democracy propose to set up for the Pennsylvania Republicans to knock down on the second day of November. James F. Weaver and J. G. Myer, are the delegates from this county.

——There is a prevailing superstition among the Bellefonte Councilmen, that if the cows are not permitted to run at will on the streets that they will get together and resolve to hold on to their milk until they are restored to liberty and their former privileges.

——Is it not strange how many queer people there are in this world. How many different forms of religion, &c. Mohammed allowed has followers to have four wives; but said that it were better to get along with one. Even in Christian America, there are many who seem to think it is not good for man to live with only one. Brigham Young, they say has forty-five. What a family for one man to support. Brigham feels the need of practicing economy, for the panic has even reached to the beautiful valley of the New Jerusalem, where dwell the Latter Day Saints. Reading the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN one day, he noticed that Sechler & Co., opposite our office, were selling the best of groceries and all kinds of green and canned fruits, cheaper than any other firm in this county, and so he and his muchly-married saints have ordered twenty car loads of goods to be sent immediately to Salt Lake City and they pay in gold. That is the kind of money those infidels use. Is it not queer how the wicked are allowed to prosper? Only think of it, Brigham, the white-headed old rascal, must take a sight of comfort—forty-five wives to pet him when he is sick, and mend his clothes and sew on buttons when he is well; but his head is level on one thing, he knows that Sechler's is the best place to buy groceries; so say we all of us.

——Knocking worms' nests from apple trees is a common occupation at present. In impetuously removing a nest from a tree on Spring street, yesterday, two of the worms fell outside the nest and went down the neck of the woman who was watching the operation. She emitted a piercing scream and went plunging under the trees, uttering shriek after shriek. The husband knowing nothing of the cause of the outbreak, very discreetly took to the cellar and crawled back of a cider-vinegar barrel to wait for the appearance of what he firmly believed to be a serious attack of insanity. The unfortunate woman pranced and screamed until she brought together some sixty-five neighbors of her own sex, who were determined to afford her immediate relief, until they learned what was the matter, when they precipitately retired outside of the fence, but showed there was no abatement of their sympathy by asking individually why she did not take the thing out. At this juncture Dr. Ferguson drove by, and he soon restored peace with the aid two of the more courageous neighbors. The husband now unexpectedly appeared from the cellar and explained his course by saying that he had his best coat on and was afraid she would tear it in her frenzy.

——Soda water at Green's drug store.

Court Proceedings.

AUGUST TERM, 1875.

Court convened on Monday afternoon, August 23, Judge Orvis presiding assisted by Associate Justices Love and Dopp. The term, lasting only four days during which jurors were in attendance, was remarkable for the large number of criminal cases disposed of, and particularly the unusually great proportion of young men among those against whom indictments were found.

The first case tried was that of the Com. vs. Thomas Laughlin and Michael Kelly, for larceny and receiving stolen goods. It seems that on the night of the 22nd of August, the saloon of Chas. Smith, near the Bush House, was entered by means of the window, and a number or articles were stolen—such as cigars, oysters, sardines, a keg of beer, etc. Verdict, guilty. Wilson, Spangler, D. A., for Com.; Fortney, Beaver, for dfts.

TUESDAY, 24.

Com. vs. Louis Gonier, charged with rape on a little girl under ten years of age. The defendant, a Frenchman, is not a particularly vicious looking customer, and probably would behave with a tolerable degree of decency when not brutalized by liquor. On the 28th of May last, he went into the house of Mrs. Dolf, in Philipsburg, and behaved in a rude manner, when he was ejected by the woman. Passing up the street, he met the nine-year old daughter of a German, named Mertz, residing in that town, the father having sent her to buy a newspaper. By means of threats and violence the outrage was committed. Verdict, guilty. Beaver, Spangler, D. A., for Com.; Fortney for deft.

Com. vs. Michael Kelly and Thomas Laughlin, burglary. Defts. pleaded guilty. Wilson, Spangler, D. A., for Com.; Fortney, Beaver, for defts.

Com. vs. Wilbur Tate, larceny of seventeen dollars and some cents, a pass book, a lead pencil, and some postage stamps from J. F. Grassmeyer. The prosecutor seems to have been drunk at the time the larceny was committed, and was lying down in the street. By a promise that he would not be prosecuted, young Tate was induced by Grassmeyer, in the Watchman office, to confess that he took the money. It was claimed on the part of the defense that the prosecutor had not lost that amount of money, but that the charge was a scheme to extort money from the father of the defendant. The jury did not take that view of the case, but found a verdict of guilty. Alexander, Spangler, D. A., for Com.; Beaver for deft.

WEDNESDAY, 25.

Com. vs. Wilbur Tate, Tony McAllister and James Jennings, larceny, etc. The goods, consisting of tobacco, candies, cheese, a ham, etc., were taken from the store of Mr. S. A. Brew, in this borough, on the night of May 15 last. The goods, after they were stolen, appeared to have been secreted in the hose house of the Logan Fire Company. The jury found the defendants guilty of receiving stolen goods. Alexander, Keller, Spangler, D. A., for com; Beaver, Fortney, for defts.

Com. vs. Scott McGuire, rape and assault with intent to commit the same. The subject of this alleged crime is a daughter by a previous marriage of Mrs. Wm. Walker, of Port Matilda. The girl is about fifteen years of age, and has always been insane or idiotic, never having spoken a coherent word from her birth, and being destitute of reason or will. The defendent had been in the practice of staying at the house of the Walkers. One night, when he was in the house, Mrs. Walker went, as was her habit, about midnight, to see if her daughter was well. Entering the room of the latter, she found the defendant and the girl in bed. McGuire took the alarm, escaped through the window by which he had entered, and returned to his own room, whence he was driven away the next morning by Mr. Walker. Verdict, guilty of assault with intent to commit a rape. Beaver, Spangler, D. A., and Reber for Com.; Wilson, Hastings, (appointed by the court) for deft. Mr. Hastings, in summing up the jury, made an ingenious argument in behelf of the prisoners, but the jury seem to have taken a practical view of the case.

THURSDAY, 26.

Louis Gonier, was sentenced to labor and solitary confinement in the Western Penitentiary for seven years, a sentence none too severe, as we believe will be universally admitted. In less law-abiding communities, such as some portions of the West and South, such malefactors are frequently taken out of the hands of the ffcers of the land and summarily lynched.

Com. vs. John Kerns, for resisting police officers in the discharge of their duty. On the 27th of last July, the defendant, who had been arrested on a previous criminal charge, was surrendered by his bail. In executing the bail piece, policemen Walker and Morgan had considerable difficulty with Kerns, who seems to have been somewhat intoxicated. He kicked and struggled, breaking the hand of policeman Morgan. After he got inside of the jail, and while the officers were attempting to put him into a cell, he resisted, and the policemen were obliged to throw him down and beat him until, as claimed by the defense, he was insensible. He was found guilty and sentenced to labor for one year in the penitentiary. As the Judge said, in pronouncing sentence, he is evidently a dangerous character, and the community is well rid of him for a year, at least. Alexander, Spangler, for Com.; Beaver, for Deft.

Scott McGuire, for assault with intent to commit rape on an idiotic girl, was sent to the penitentiary for two years. McGuire's sanity has been questioned, and sometime last winter or spring he was acquitted of a charge of larceny, by a Clearfield county jury, on that ground, and sent to the insane asylum. Judge Orvis presided at the trial in Clearfield, and in pronouncing sentence in the present case, alluded to that fact, and said that he then entertained serious doubts as to the correctness of the decision of the jury. His Honor justly, we doubt not, considers, the man as more knave than fool, and believes the penitentiary is the proper place for him until he reforms.

Charles Hewy, for receiving stolen goods, which he confessed, was sent to the penetentiary for one year and two months.

James Jennings, for the same crime, goes for one year.

Wm. G. Brown, for larceny, was sentenced to the penitentiary for thirteen months.

Toner McAllister, goes also for thirteen months.

Wilbur Tate was sentenced to one year and fifteen days in the penitentary.

To all these young men the Judge read an earnest lecture, and it is hoped, for their own sake, as well as that of their families and the good of the community, that the sound advice will be heeded.

Thomas Laughlin, received a sentence of one year and nine months in the penitentiary.

Michael Kelly, one year and seven months in the same institution.

Wm. Decker, vs., Henry Waits, Adms., was the only civil cause tried. It was an action of covenant on a contract for the sale of lands, the administrators refusing to make good the contract of their decedent. The verdict was for the plaintiff for $444,93, the amount due at the time the suit was instituted. There was no defense. Beaver for plff.

The court heard motions, petitions, arguments etc., during the remainder of the day's session.

Court adjourned until Friday morning, when it met to consider road cases.

——There was considerable excitement on Thursday last, when the prisoners who had been tried and sentenced, were taken from the County Jail to the depot on their way to the Western Penitentiary. There were ten of them in all. They were linked together two-and-two, and escorted to the station by Sheriff Shaffer, Austin Hinton and John G. Uzzle, followed by an immense throng of men, women and children. It was not a pleasant sight. A few of the prisoners had no friends to say good-bye to. They stood looking on at the throng, their nerves braced, and a look of indifference or defiance in their faces. Some chatted indifferently to curious bystanders, withstanding the gaze of the throng right bravely, while perhaps their thoughts were far off in the past, recounting the scenes of long ago, when as innocent, careless children, they nestled to a fond mother's bosom, and sank to sleep to the music of some well-remembered lullaby. There are some bitter tests which the mind and heart are put to, in the economy of humanity. When folly and crime force out almost the last spark of manhood, and unbridled impulse and passion have run to the bitter end, and when that cruelest of all cruel masters, remorse, lays the heart upon the block and wrings from it untold anguish, then it is that the days of innocence, the careless season of childhood and its sweet memories, hallowed by a mother's love, come to the mind and paint the sweet picture of Innocence in imperishable tracery. Poor fellows, they have reaped the harvest of their own sowing. There were several boys in the party, smooth-faced, bright-eyed lads, whose passions had but learned to glow, and whose impulsiveness, and, perhaps, innate disposition to wrong, had brought upon them this lasting blight upon their future. We noticed the mother of one of them putting some clean articles of wearing apparel in her son's carpet-bag, stowing away some cakes and other little needfuls, then with hot, bitter tears coursing down her anguished face, pouring advice into his ear, praying "God to make him a good boy;" and then clasping him to her bosom in a last embrace, stand aside while the convicts filed off between the officers to a seat in the cars.

——Dr. S. Belford will arrive in town next Saturday, Sept. 4th, to remain five weeks. None need suffer with toothache while the doctor remains, he knows how to pull a tooth so you will hardly feel it. He is a skillful workman, in every branch of dentistry, as his numerous friends and patrons in Bellefonte and vicinity can testify. His office is on Allegheny street, near Reynold's bank.

——Peruvian Beer, 5 cts a glass at Green's drug store.

WINE PRODUCTS OF NEW JERSEY.—This State is becoming celebrated for grape culture. Some of the richest port in the world is produced in New Jersey by Alfred Speer, whose name has become celebrated as a producer of strictly pure unadulterated wine. The Port Grape Wine of Mr. Speer is not bottled, or put into market until it is four years old, and has become thoroughly fine and mellow. It has proved itself a wonderful assistant to physicians, who prescribe it from the fact that they have hitherto found it difficult to obtain a pure Port Wine. This wine is recommended for debilitated persons; and is given to consumptives to use with fresh raw eggs, and as a medium for taking cod liver oil. The difficulty of getting an imported or even a pure California Port is well understood to be so great as to preclude Doctors from allowing their patients to run the risk of its use. Mr. Speer being aware of this fact, has taken the utmost care in the making of his wine from the ripest and finest grapes, so as to supplant the imported wines by producing a genuine article. His wines are known by chemists to be pure and the most reliable for medical purposes. The druggists throughout the country sell it, as bottled by Mr. Speer.—Chronicle

MESSRS. EDITORS:—A festive celebration, participated in by several Sunday schools, the Patriotic Sons of America, and a large number of citizens, was held in the Grove at Howard, on Saturday, the 28th inst.

After partaking of a bountiful dinner they all repaired to the stand, erected for the occasion, when Mr. J. D. Kase was chosen president, and W. W. Rogers, secretary.

An able an impressive address on temperance was delivered by Rev. N. J. Mitchell, followed by one to the Patriotic Sons, by Hon. James Chatham, of Lock Haven. Benediction by the Rev. Coburn.

During the day the crowd was entertained with music by the Millheim Brass Band, which has already gained an enviable reputation for so young an organization.

Everything passed off quietly and pleasantly, and great credit is due those having the management of the celebration for the successful manner in which they carried it out. SECRETARY.

——New fall and winter stock and styles at Montgomery's, in Brockerhoff's Row. This enterprising firm are constantly receiving new goods which they buy at panic prices and sell for the same. If you are in want of a new suit of clothes, or anything in the gentleman's furnishing line, don't fail to give Mongomery a call. It will be to your interest and you will never regret it.

——Green, on High street, opposite our office, keeps constantly on hand the best assortment of drugs and medicines of all kinds, to be found in Bellefonte. He has also the best assortment of fancy toilet articles to be found any where outside of Philadelphia.

TONS OF GRAPES AND THEIR USE.—It is astonishing to see the large quantities of grapes of the finest quality, and large clusters, that are each year mashed up for wine, at the vineyards of A. Speer, Passaic, N. J. Mr. Speer raises the Oporto grape; also purchases large quantities, from which he makes his celebrated wine, with the admixture of alcohol or spirits. This wine is found by careful analysis to be the best wine in market for invalids and debilitated persons. It is called Speer's Port Grape Wine, and is sold by Druggists.—Courier.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.—WHEREAS, It has pleased God, in his infinite wisdom, to remove from our order our worthy brother, Past District Deputy Grand Master Roland Curtin, therefore, be it

Resolved, That Centre County Lodge, No. 153, has sustained by his death an irreparable loss; that from his experience of nearly thirty years in Odd Fellowship, having been initiated March 12th, 1846, we have had many opportunities for testing the wisdom of his counsel.

Resolved, That the principles of Friendship, Love and Truth, Benevolence and Charity, for the promotion of which he labored with us as an Order, lost, in his death, a devoted advocate, and that we are deeply sensible of that loss in this the hour of our saddest bereavement.

Resolved, That we gratefully record our sense of the value of the services of brother Curtin as an Odd Fellow and bear testimony to his worth, not only as an Odd Fellow, but as a citizen.

Resolved, That in response to the commands of the Order "to visit the sick, relieve the distressed and bury the dead," no one could have been more prompt or willing to act in sympathetic obedience.

Resolved, That we acknowledge in this affliction the hand of God with becoming reverence, whereby we have been deprived of his counsel, and while we sorrow in contemplation of our loss at the gloomy portals of the grave, the light of that prospect which lies beyond the tomb dispels the gloom and reanimates us with a lively hope of the promise of immortal life, "he is not dead but sleepeth; thy brother shall rise again."

Resolved, That as the sprig of evergreen with us as an Order, is the symbol of memory and Eternity, so shall the remembrance of his virtues live in our hearts until they cease to pulsate and we, too, in turn, shall moulder with the dust.

Resolved, That we respectfully tender the widow and family of the deceased our sincere condolence and direct that a copy of these resolutions, signed by the officers and under the seal of the Lodge, be presented to them.

Resolved, That in token of respect to the memory of our deceased brother, this Lodge room be draped and the brothers wear the usual badge of mourning for the space of thirty days.

Resolved, That these proceedings be entered on our minutes and published in the "Bellefonte REPUBLICAN" and Democratic Watchman.
